Durand Opens Campaign with Scathing Attack on Donahey and White

Proposes to "Move Seat of Government from Westerville to Columbus"—Declares Donahey is Running "Biggest Kangaroo Court in Ohio"—First Campaign Speech in Columbus Given at Memorial Hall

C. Homer Durand of Coshocton, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, opened his campaign Monday evening at Columbus, with an address in Memorial Hall.

James A. White, also a candidate for the Republican nomination, and Governor Donahey were the targets upon which he trained his guns.

Durand declared that if he was elected, he would "move the seat of the state government from Westerville (Anti-Saloon League headquarters) to Columbus," in opening his attack on White.

Donahey, he said, is running "the biggest kangaroo court in Ohio," the allusion being to the cases of mayors in Ohio municipalities, against whom charges were filed with the governor. "No booty is at stake, however," Durand said, "and the governor apparently is sincere."

"Such cities as Canton and Tiffin, in my belief, are well able to care for their own affairs," Durand said, "and unless the mayor is caught red-handed in a flagrant offense, there should be no interference on the part of the state."

Municipal Judge John F. Seidel of Columbus, who presided at the meeting Monday night, severely criticized the Anti-Saloon League, stating that "prohibition as conducted by, and with the consent of the Anti-Saloon League has made more political cowards than all other forces combined since the birth of the nation.

"Several Judges of the highest state courts have admitted to me that one dare not offend the league, else his (political) head comes off," the judge said.

Two years ago Durand finished third in a field of nine candidates for the Republican nomination for governor. Carmi A. Thompson won the nomination. Durand ran on a light wine and beer platform, but he is said to have adopted a more conservative stand this year.

His platform still calls for the repeal of the Crabbe act, Miller bill and other "objectionable prohibition enforcement laws," or at least "modification to make them conform to the eighteenth amendment." However, he is assuring his followers his election will not mean the return of booze or any let up in the enforcement of prohibition, and it merely means honest law enforcement and a step in the direction of modification, he asserts.

He is the first Republican candidate to appear at Columbus, before a public meeting, this year.

FIRST HERESY TRIAL SINCE REFORMATION

Begins at Cleveland Tuesday—Bishop Who Taught Bible More than 40 Years Accused

DENIES CHRIST LIVED

Hopes to Force Accusers to Give Personal Beliefs on Miraculous Bible Stories

By George R. Holmes

CLEVELAND, O., May 27.—History rolled back to its musty pages for centuries here in Cleveland today as a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, William Montgomery Brown, silver-haired and feeble from his forty-odd years of teaching the word, went on trial before a jury of his peers, charged with being a heretic and an atheist.

It is the first heresy trial in the Episcopal church since the reformation, and as such, it holds the undivided interest of all churchdom, irrespective of creeds.

If Bishop Brown has his way his trial will be an epochal one in the Christian religion. Before it ends he plans to compel, if possible, his fellow bishops and judges to write a new definition of heresy and to giving the word their personal beliefs in such matters as the story

TORNADOES KILL 38; SCORES ARE INJURED

Louisiana, Alabama, and Mississippi Swept by Second Disastrous Storm Within Month—Many of Injured May Die—Town Destroyed

ATLANTA, Ga., May 27.—At least 38 persons lost their lives and scores are suffering from injuries as a result of a series of cyclonic disturbances which swept across Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama last night and early today.

Reports from the devastated sections have 11 dead in Mississippi, 17 in Alabama, and eight in Louisiana.

This is the second in a series of storms that have swept the south during the past month. On April 29, a terrific disturbance started at Texarkana and wound its path across Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina, claiming a total of 122 lives and property damage estimated at more than $10,000,000.

NEW YORK, La., May 27—Eight persons were killed and more than a score injured, several seriously, when a tornado virtually annihilated Johnson Station, Miss., early today, according to reports reaching here.

Johnson Station is 12 miles from Brookhaven, Miss., which also suffered a heavy property loss from the storm.

VICKSBURK, Miss., May 27. — Reports reaching here today state that three persons lost their lives late yesterday when a terrific windstorm swept thru Leland, Miss. Several others were injured, three of whom are expected to die. The dead and injured are all negroes.

EMPIRE, Ala., May 27.—Ten persons were killed and 17 injured two seriously when a terrific tornado struck the Owens settlement two miles from here early today. A heavy property damage was reported from that district.

GADSDEN, Alabama, May 27.—A tornado struck the White Sulphur Springs community, six miles from here today, seriously injuring eight persons, one of whom was reported dying.

Heavy property loss was reported.

ATHENS, Ala., May 27.—Seven persons were dead today and a dozen more injured at Elkton, Ala., near here, as a result of a cyclone which struck that region last night, according to meagre reports reaching here.

LAUREL, Miss., May 27—Victor Cook and five members of his family were instantly killed near here early today when their home at Bay Springs was completely demolished by a cyclone. Two young women were reported killed last night when another storm struck Union, Miss.

COLLECTION OF NEW TAX A BIG TASK

Ordinance Places Additional Duties on Shoulders of City Auditor and Treasurer

NEED EXTRA HELP

Council Advises Two Officers to Visit Cincinnati and See Method Used There

The problem of collecting the money which will be derived from the occupational tax, which was passed by council a week ago, was discussed at length at the regular meeting of the city council Monday evening. City Treasurer Walter Sherrets attended the meeting for the purpose of obtaining information pertaining to collection. Altho the council's action stops with the passing of the ordinance, it was explained they will be glad to offer any assistance possible.

Certain clauses in the occupational tax ordinance provide that the money shall be collected by the city treasurer and the disbursements shall be made by him, and that certificates showing that payment of the tax has been made shall be issued by the city auditor.

POSTAL BILL PASSED WITH EASY MARGIN

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Compulsory publicity for all political contributions in the 1924 presidential campaign was virtually assured this afternoon when the senate passed the Edge postal pay bill.

A provision, ordering wide publicity on every contribution for political purposes was carried as a "rider" on the bill which granted a $65,000,000 increase to postal employe. The vote on the bill was 73 to 3.

The only votes against the bill were cast by Senators Borah, Republican of Idaho, Fess, Republican of Ohio and Wills, Republican of Ohio.

The postal pay provisions of the measure granted an average increase of about $200 to all postal employes.

Franklin Food Club Will Meet

The Franklin Cloverleaf food club, under the leadership of Mrs. G. T. Vinsel, will hold its third regular bi-weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Vinsel, Thursday afternoon, May 29.

Demonstrations in canning, baking quick breads, meal planning and kitchen activities will be made by the girls of the club after which a literary and recreation program in charge of the recreation committee will be given.

VETERANS SWAP HATS, BUT NOT INTENTIONALLY

By mistake some one is wearing a black felt hat belonging to Benjamin Coe, 112 Cocay, today and Mr. Coe thru a mistake is wearing a gray hat belonging to somebody else.

The mistake was made at the close of the noon day luncheon given the Civil war veterans at the Park Hotel by the Rotary club.

The hat Mr. Coe got is the same size as the one he lost.

Ulery Advises Board to Reduce Teaching Staff, Close Two of Buildings

Relief Measures Advanced by Examiner Would Slash Number of Teachers One-Fourth—Pupils Would Be Assigned to Morning or Afternoon Classes—Would Discontinue French and Spanish Classes

Closing of two or three of the Coshocton school buildings, reduction of the teaching staff, and four-hour days for pupils are recommended for the coming year by C. B. Ulery, state high school inspector in a letter to the local board of education.

Mr. Ulrey came here to investigate conditions in the schools, and to make recommendations for a reduction in expenses that will meet with the approval of the state department of education.

Many other recommendations are also made in his report, which is published in full, herewith.

Altho the local school board is averse to putting the schools on a half-day basis, reductions in expense must be made somewhere along the line, and such action will likely be necessary, Mrs. W. B. Miller, clerk of the board, said this morning.

The report is under consideration now, and, with the help of the new school superintendent, A. C. Pence, some definite program will probably be worked out within the near future.

Here is a copy of Ulery's report, with the recommendations and explanations as he sent them:

"The writer recently visited your schools for the purpose of making a study of your organization having in mind the changes that could be made which would lessen the cost of operation and which would not materially affect the efficiency of your schools.

"I am sorry that the board finds it necessary to begin the next school year with a part of its funds exhausted to meet deficits accumulating the present year. It is extremely difficult to determine or even to approximate the amount of money the board will have left for operation next year. Basing estimates upon the present tax duplicate of $15,309,700 and the minimum possible operating levy of 7.85 mills the income should be $117,119.20. It will probably be impossible to reduce expenditures to a sufficient extent to be able to clear up present indebtedness and to operate the next school year without heavy reductions. I shall therefore, only suggest the greatest reductions that could safely be made and not enter into a discussion of the probable financial standing of the board one year later.

COMMITTEE REJECTS FORD'S BID FOR SHOALS PROJECT

Auto Manufacturer Loses Second Time; Vote is 11 to 6; Was O. K.'d by House

WASHINGTON, May 27—Henry Ford's bid for the lease of the government's great nitrate and power project at Muscle Shoals was rejected today by the senate agriculture committee for the second time.

By a vote of 11 to 5, the committee turned down the Ford bid, which has been approved by the house and reported out the plan of Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, for government operation at Muscle Shoals. The vote on the Norris plan was 11 to 1.

Senator Keyes, Republican of New Hampshire, Smith, Democrat of South Carolina, Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, Heflin, Democrat of Alabama, and Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, voted in favor of the Ford plan on the first vote, but on the second vote, Caraway did not vote.

A minority report favoring the Ford proposal is expected to be submitted to the senate by these senators and a vote demanded on a substitution for the Norris plan.

DRIVER IN TWO COURTS

Running Car While Intoxicated Costs Man License Plates and $20 in Fines

Fred Gingaunagel, of Port Washington, faced charges in Mayor M. C. Woods' court and in Justice C. C. Geese's court in West Lafayette, Monday night.

He pleaded guilty to driving a car while intoxicated in mayor's court. Mayor Woods fined him $5 and costs, sentenced him to ten days in the county jail and took his auto license away from him for the remainder of the year. The mayor suspended the jail sentence.

In Justice Geese's court Gingaunagel pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $15 and costs. His fines were paid and the charges dismissed.

Gingaunagel was held in the Newcomerstown jail yesterday evening until Marshal John Hughes, of West Lafayette went after him last evening.

WAGON DEMOLISHED AND TEAM INJURED IN WILD RUNAWAY

Horses Take Fright at Truck and Make Mad Dash from Balsh's Mill Late Mon.

A wagon was almost completely demolished and two horses were injured when a team owned and driven by Russell Olinger, of near Chili, took fright at a truck near Balch's mill, late Monday afternoon, and ran away.

Mr. Olinger was standing on the rear end of his wagon loading feed at the Balch mill when the runaway occurred. Altho be jumped from the wagon and succeeded in getting the lines, which were tied to the front of the wagon, he was unable to stop the team.

The team ran back across the bridge colliding with a truck and two cars before they were finally stopped near the Sycamore school building.

Olinger was not hurt, but the team was slightly injured, the feed strewn along the street and the wagon was wrecked.

VOTE LIGHT IN WEST VA.

Coolidge Assured of Nineteen Delegates; Rain Keeps Voters from the Polls

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 27.—Drizzling rain discouraged the hopes of those who had expected a big vote to be polled in the statewide primary today. Political observers are predicting that a light vote would be polled.

Altho the election contained the presidential preference feature, little interest was drawn to this since President Coolidge's name appeared along on the Republican ticket thus assuring him of all nineteen delegates, and the Democratic ticket was without the name of a presidential candidate.

Six Republicans were seeking the nomination for governor, while four Democrats were entered in the same contest. Five candidates are after the Republican nomination for the senate seat now held by Senator Davis Elkins, who did not enter the primary. On the Democratic side, former Senator William E. Chilton and Mrs. Izetta J. Jewell Brown were the candidates.

Two Americans Are Reported Slain in China

METHODISTS LIFT BAN ON AMUSEMENTS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 27.—The Methodist general conference today voted to lift the ban on dancing and other amusements that has been in force since the church was founded.

The report as adopted denounces questionable amusements and provides that pastors bring charges against members partaking in amusements that "cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

Members found guilty shall be expelled. The report calls for a vigorous campaign against social evils to be directed by the church boards.

Removal of the ban permits actors and actresses to become members of the Methodist church.

The ban affected dancing, games or chance and theatre attendance. Repeal of the restriction permits indulgence in these amusements, except those "which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

A minority report upholding the ban was voted down, 429 to 294.

The general conference today elected Dr. Ralph E. Dissenorfer, of Chicago, as one of the two new foreign missionary secretaries. He will succeed Rev. Dr. Titus Lowe of New York, who last week was elected a bishop.

Postpone Action on Sun. Movies

COLUMBUS, May 27.—Altho the proposal for concerted action seeking statewide enforcement of the anti-Sunday movie law was discussed at a conference here of representatives of county councils of churches and ministerial associations, no decision was reached, Rev. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, stated today.

Aggressive action along this line may be decided upon later, Dr. Lamb said.

In the meantime, it was announced, some of these organizations will launch Anti-Sunday movie campaigns.

SON IS BORN

Word was received here Tuesday that a son was born Friday at the Grant hospital in Columbus to Mr. and Mrs. Royal Randles of Columbus. Mr. Randles formerly lived in Roscoe.

Soldiers of Three Wars Guests of Rotary Club

Representatives of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars were guests of the Rotary Club at its weekly noonday luncheon Tuesday at the Park hotel.

Civil War veterans present were James N. Collier, C. P. Henry, C. C. Hootinger, James Nelson, George M. Barkley, Conrad Hammer, S. W. Fry, B. B. Shaw, W. R. Richards, Benjamin Coe, S. McNeal and Charles Huff. S. J. Cardwell and Charles Stambaugh represented the Spanish-American war veterans and Joseph B. Shepler and Dr. J. D. Lower, the World War veterans.

Led by the Coshocton drum corps, composed of James Sells, Charles Burch, Otto Burch and Benjamin Coe, the latter playing a fife, the young and old soldiers marched into the dining room. The dining room was appropriately decorated for the occasion. In the center, suspended from the ceiling, was a large sized flag. This flag, it was told by C. C. Hootinger, was made by Coshocton women in the days of the Civil War, was carried at the battle of

Prohibitionists Will Nominate a Candidate Again

WASHINGTON, May 26 — Another finger was stuck in the national political pie today when it was announced here that the Prohibition party, undaunted by half a century of quadrennial defeats at the polls, would meet in convention at Columbus, O., on June 5 to nominate a candidate for president of the United States.

This means that there will be at least three presidential candidates before the voters in November and perhaps more, as new rumblings are heard of Farmer-Labor, Socialist and bi partisan independent tickets.

The prohibition party was organized in 1869 and named its first national ticket in 1872. It has had a candidate for the presidency every 4 years since. Four years ago he was Dr Aaron S. Watkins, an Ohio minister who polled 189,000 out of the 26,000,000 cast.

Dr Watkins has declined to accept the standard of the party leadership again and it is reported here that president of nomination lie between H. P. Faris, a banker of Clinton, Mo., and Charles H. Randall of Los Angeles who is one of the few prohibitionists ever elected to congress as such. He served in the house in the 64th, 65th and 66th congresses, after first receiving his nomination in both the Democratic and prohibitionists' primaries.

Faris will deliver the "keynote" address at Columbus and Charles R. Jones, former chairman of the Prohibition national committee, will act as permanent chairman of the convention which will be in session for two days. About 200 delegates will attend the convention, the allotment being on the basis of the representation of the several states in congress plus the votes that they conceded to Dr. Watkins in 1920.

The party's platform will [illegible] and Democratic [illegible] as unfit to be trusted with the administration of the federal government.

"Revelations of political graft, open disregard for law, failure of elected officials to do their duty and general conditions of unrest call for concerted action on the part of the forces of righteousness," Hinshaw said today. "All that remains is that Prohibitionists and good citizens who attend the convention, make this gathering the vehicle for solving the grave political problems of the hour."

Believe Woman Killed Teacher

AMHERST, Maine, May 26.—That a woman may have murdered pretty Louise Gerrish, 19-year-old village school teacher, was the theory, unusual in such crimes, that is being exploited by state and local authorities today.

Finding of foot prints, made by a woman, in the soft earth around the shallow grave, where the body was discovered, is one of the factors that has turned investigators in this direction. The fact that Miss Gerrish was not attacked added weight to the theory. Miss Gerrish was disrobed by her assailant or assailants and some of her clothing used as a gag and this at first centered search for the murderer about young men of the girls acquaintance. Altho there is nothing to indicate that she had aroused the jealousy of another woman, the investigation was directed today toward finding a woman of whom Miss Gerrish might have unwittingly made a rival.

Officials were confident today an arrest is near.

SUBSIDIES FOR DANISH COMMERCIAL STUDENTS

For assisting young Danish commercial men to obtain training in foreign countries a number of subsidies are now available, according to a recent report by Marion Letcher, American consul general to Denmark, quoted in School Life, a publication of the United States Bureau of Education.

As a rule grants are made only to applicants who hold foreign appointments or are proceeding to such appointments, but there is a fund available for distribution in 1924 which will be granted to commercial men seeking training or intending to establish commercial connections with foreign places, especially overseas. Grants will be given not only to young men but also to men of mature age if it is deemed that their sojourn in a foreign country may be to the benefit not only of the applicant himself but also to the export trade of Denmark and to the commercial connections of the country with foreign markets.

No. 10 Downing Street in Danger of Collapse

LONDON, May 26—Number Ten Downing Street, world-famous as the historic residence of British Prime Ministers since the days of Pitt, is in danger of collapsing due to old age, according to experts who recently examined the building. For some time past the famous dining room has had to be shored up whenever a large party has been held. Now the whole of the lower portion of the building is to be reconstructed and reinforced as soon as possible.

Calls American Woman World's Super-Mother

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—The American woman is the super-mother of the world!

So says Mme. Marie Jonnesco, French poetess and art critic here recently on a special mission for the Queen of Rumania to interest Americans in the art of that country.

"American women are closer to their children than any on the globe," said the French visitor.

SELECTION OF COOLIDGE'S RUNNING MATE AND PARTY PLATFORM ARE UNDERTAKEN

(By GEORGE E. DURNO)

WASHINGTON, May 26—Entering into the pre-convention home stretch with nomination at Cleveland assured, President Coolidge settled down with his advisors today to dispose of three exceedingly difficult asks, the building of a platform to fit the candidate and the selection, first, of a man to place the president in nomination, and second, of a running mate.

Of the three problems, the platform-building bids fair to be the most difficult. The past month has developed a certain lack of harmony between the standard-bearer in the white house and his Republican colleagues in the capitol which may make agreement on some planks rather hard.

The Coolidge nominator probably will be chosen this week. Several names have been suggested, with Senator Borah, of Idaho, taking first rank. Borah, however, has indicated that he might not be at the Cleveland convention, in view of a bitter fight in his home state and, therefore, the job may go to some other "progressive" Republican—possibly Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana.

President Coolidge would sit back and permit the convention to select his running mate, hoping only that the man would come from west of the Mississippi.

The recent visit to Washington of ex-Senator Beveridge at the express invitation of the president, coupled with certain tacit inquiries as to the acceptability of Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa, would seem to indicate otherwise, however.

There is a large field to pick from, including Representative Dickinson of Iowa, Governor Hyde, of Missouri, Governor Groesbeck of Michigan, and others of the west, and thus the president may choose a potential vice president with care.

Returning to the first problem, that of the platform, Coolidge backers are settling down for a hard fight. Secretary C. Bascom Slemp will be on hand at Cleveland to speak for the president and, unless much spade work is performed in Washington by June ninth, he may have to speak in a loud voice.

Republican insurgents, under the leadership of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, are prepared to fight for a few platform planks of their own particular liking, while some of the regulars have crossed the president on policy.

Mirrors and Vanities for New Pullman Cars

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 26.—With a view to giving travelers more "homey" comforts, the Pennsylvania Railroad System is soon to have fifty new type Pullmans on its lines with the latest innovations.

Among the principal features of the new cars are large dressing rooms each equipped with a full length vanity table and large enough for four chairs, an extra size mirror and three wash stands.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER WILL BE RETURNED

COLUMBUS, May 26.—Governor Donahey today made formal requisition upon the governor of California for the return to this state of Frank A. Irish, former county recorder of Lorain-co, who is under indictment for alleged embezzlement of $1,138.90 from the court's funds on May 1, 1923. Irish was reported under arrest in Napa, California.

Doctor on Stand in Murder Trial

AKRON, May 26—Dr F. C. Potter was on the witness stand today in the trial of Marion "Slim" Webb, under indictment for slaying Frederick W. Gerhardy, Detroit racing judge in the lobby of the Portage Hotel here last October. Peter Callen, of Toronto, Canada, another track official was severely wounded at the same time.

Dr. Potter, who assisted in the autopsy on Gerhardy, emphatically gave it as his opinion that the horseman's death was not due to the bullet wound in the lungs. He would not admit that shock contributed materially to the fatal termination of an intestinal obstruction for which Gerhardy was being treated when he was shot. This ailment, declared the doctor was the direct cause of death.

House to End

cent on taxes on earned incomes up to $10,000.

The taxes on estates and gifts begin at one per cent on $50,000 and graduated upward to 40 per cent at $10,000,000 or more.

Acceding to the wishes of President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon, the provision for full publicity of income tax returns was eliminated. This amendment was fostered by the insurgents.

Striking out the senate amendment for a graduated corporation tax, a flat tax of 12½ per cent was adopted.

Cheers constantly broke out from all over the chamber when a moment later Longworth added:

"The house will be ready to adjourn by the middle of next week."

The bill provides reductions in income taxes framed by a combination of Democrats and progressives in both house and senate, repeal of so-called nuisance taxes, a deduction of 25 per cent from the income taxes of 1923 payable this year, revised estate taxes, a gift tax, a graduated tax on corporation surplus and important recommendations by Secretary Mellon tightening up existing law to prevent evasions of taxes by taxpayers.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Congress was ready today to make an end of the tax reduction fight that has been in progress since Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's revenue revision plan was made public last summer.

The conference report on the compromise tax bill carrying the Simmons-Longworth tax schedules and no wise resembling the original Mellon plan insisted upon by President Coolidge was scheduled to come up in the house this afternoon for final action.

There is no doubt that the conference report will be adopted and the bill sent to the white house. The Democrats and insurgent Republicans augmented by a handful of regulars, will see to that. The vote will be preceded, however, by an hour or so of debate in which the administration's chief supporters in the house ways and means committee plan to warn congress against what they describe as the unscientific principles of the present bill.

Their opposition to the conference report may take the form of a motion for the recommital of the bill to the senate and house conferees with instructions to lower the surtax rates and increase the normal income tax rates so that the finished product will be more in line with the Mellon recommendations.

The house this morning was not in a temper to do that, indicating that a move to recommit would be overwhelmingly defeated and the conference report adopted forthwith.

Any efforts to make eleventh-hour alterations in the bill will be fought on the ground that the legislation, as now written, is the best possible bill that can be expected from the present congress.

Charges among the Republicans in the house that the bill will operate to creat a deficiency in the federal treasury are met by the statement of Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, that the revenue revision provided for by the bill will bring in enough money to pay for the bonus and all the other government expenditures during the next fiscal year, with a surplus of at least $2,000,000.

With the stage set for the final congressional action on the tax bill today, President Coolidge's attitude on the legislation still remained in doubt. Passage of the bill today will mean that he will have until the latter part of the first week in June to decide whether to sign the bill or veto it.

Speculation as to the course the president will take was evenly divided today. Those that believed he would veto the bill pointed out that, from the beginning of the tax fight in congress, he has firmly declined to enter into any compromise that meant the rejection, even partially, of the Mellon plan, now completely repudiated by both the senate and house.

They declared that there was no other course open to the president, in view of that stand, than to send the bill back to congress unsigned and go before the country in the presidential campaign with the promise of another effort at tax revision in the second session of the 68th congress, convening in March.

On the other hand it was pointed out that the overwhelming sentiment in congress in favor of the compromise bill was an indication of the feeling of the country at large and that, even if the bill is vetoed, there is every possibility of it being passed over the veto, thus chalking up another congressional victory over the president on the eve of the conveneing of the Republican national convention.

MARINE LABORATORY ON A FIRM FOUNDATION

The finest equipment for biological research in the world has been made possible by a gift of $1,400,000 to the Woods Hole (Mass.) Marine Biological Laboratory. A combined laboratory and library building, to cost about $600,000, will be constructed at once, which with the present facilities will form an ideal plant for the institutions interested in this work. The gift was a joint contribution from the Rockefeller Foundation, from John D. Rockefeller, jr., from the Friendship Fund endowed by Charles R. Crane, and from the Carnegie Corporation. The laboratory was planned on a national cooperative basis, as it is open to all American institutions. During 1923, 70 universities and research organizations contributed to its support.

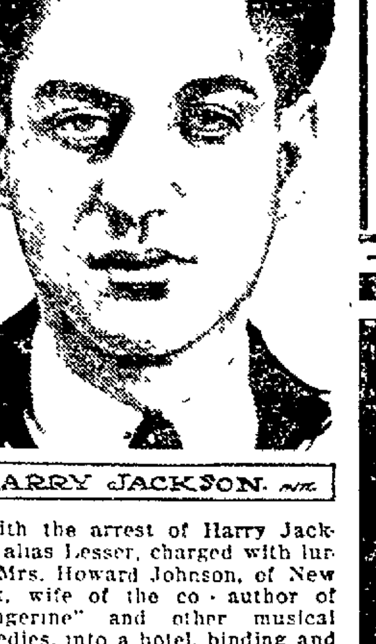

Politics "Unimportant," Is Lady Astor's View

LONDON, May 26.—Lady Astor is disillusioned.

"The political life is a very disappointing one," admits Lady Astor.

"The things one tries to do are so far away. One gets the blame for all the wrong in the world. I do not consider the work of politicians very important."

Arrest May Clear Up "Butterfly" Murders.

HARRY JACKSON.

With the arrest of Harry Jackson, alias Lesser, charged with luring Mrs. Howard Johnson, of New York, wife of the co-author of "Tangerine" and other musical comedies, into a hotel, binding and robbing her of $9,000 worth of jewels, New York police believe they are on the trail of the murderers of "Dot" King and Louise Lawson, "Broadway butterflies." Mrs. Johnson was bound up exactly as were the two girls, but managed to escape the death that overtook them.

But he has refused $30,000 for the manuscript of his "Nocturne," written on scraps of paper when he was partially blinded by war wounds.

MARTIN AND HARVEY ARE BACK IN U. S.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., May 26—Major Frederick L. Martin and Sergeant Alva Harvey, crew of the ill-fated American round-the-world plane Seattle, which was completely wrecked April 30 when it crashed into a mountain near Chignik, Alaska, were planning to leave tomorrow for Washington where Major Martin, commander of the American globe circling flight, will make a detailed report to Major General Maso Patrick, chief of the American air service concerning the crash. He was greeted on his return here yesterday from Port Moller by his wife and son from San Diego a reception committee of 150 Boy Scouts, bands and many prominent persons. He said today his future plans concerning rejoining the world flight hinged on his conference with Major General Patrick.

Major Martin's voice shook with regret when he spoke of the wrecked airship in which lie all his dreams and hopes of completing the circuit of the globe by air.

The major also declared the mirages were largely responsible for his being thrown off his course after leaving Chignik.

Except for Martin's injured nose, which is thot to be cracked the major and Sergeant Harvey looked none the worse for their harrowing experience.

PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS MAY ESTAB. SAV. FUND

A unique plan for assisting students who can not afford the lump sum required for tuition has been devised by the dean, Merrill J. Holmes, of the Dakota Wesleyan, University, of Mitchell, S. Dak., according to School Life, a publication of the United States Bureau of Education. Following his suggestion, students who contemplate attending the school forward their savings in sums of $5 or more to the university. This money is placed to their credit and 6 per cent is allowed on deposits. When the student enters school his tuition and other college expenses may be charged to his account. If for any reason he is unable to enter college, the entire sum he has deposited, together with 5 per cent interest, will be returned to him. Altho the prepayment scheme has only recently been initiated, about $1,500 has already been received from prospective students, some of whom are just entering high school.

SPANISH WANT AMERICAN EQUIPMENT FOR SCHOOLS

An appeal from Malaga, Spain, has come to the United States Bureau of Education, through Harold L. Smith, American vice consul, for information to aid in establishing trade schools. City authorities, with leading citizens, are planning a school for training boys to become carpenters, electricians, mechanics, railway trainmen, plumbers, bricklayers, road builders, and contractors. Certain classes will also be given for girls. It is proposed to model the Malaga school after trade schools in the United States and to equip them with American products. Trade publications and catalogues from manufacturers of suitable equipment and building plans are especially desired.

California Rum Laden, Says Jailed Dry Agent

LOS ANGELES, May 26—"So much liquor is coming into California now that it is selling for $50 a case wholesale; whereas, a year ago it was $100 a case," declared F. C. Neal, former Federal prohibition agent, before leavig here recently for McNeil's Island to serve a fifteen month's term following his conviction on a charge of smuggling liquor into this State.

It is the "big fellows," who are never caught, that bring about this condition, Neal contended.

Neal's wife, woh was convicted with him and received a fine of $1 has pledged herself to wait for him.

TODAY'S BRIGHT SPOT

All that glitters is not of the purest ray serene. The Kohinoor gleams glorfously, but all that does likewise is not the Kohinoor. To John Wilday one gem has a baleful gleam, as the novelists say, rather than any joyful glint. He first saw the diamond on a friend's hand. From then on the gem did anything but blush unseen, as far as John was concerned. In a way it haunted him He was fascinated. Like a bird held fast by the hypnotic eye of a bird, that diamond centered all John's attention. Too much attention. An opportunity presented itself, and John grabbed the opportunity by the neck. Or, rather, by the finger. He transferred the priceless jewel to his own finger, then watched it gleam some more.

But the curse of the idol's eye, or something, followed the big diamond. John was arrested and charged with grand larceny. While investigating the grandness of it court officials discovered that the Kohinoor was a Woolworth. By the bushel or by the one, similar diamonds may be had at 10 cents per each. They made the grand into petit. John, unfortunately, must pay 30 days of his life and $100 in cash for the gem that blushed too much seen. Irony and jewelry are sweethearts, in Canton, where John lives.

BUCYRUS — Suit for $54 25 damage has been begun in a local court against M. E. Milligan, alleged bogus dry official now in the county jail, who is charged with impersonating an officer when he secured a dozen search warrants and arrested eight persons for having liquor in their possession. The suit was brot by W. R. Hepner, proprietor of the hotel in which Milligan was stopping, and is for damage to property caused in bringing in the liquor.

ELYRIA—Haroutune K. Kachadourian, a minister, whose wife and three children were massacred by Turks, and Anitin Chakerian, another Armenia, who was made a refugee when the Turks burned Smyrna and, who is a student at Oberlin, were married here by Dr. Edward Bosworth. The bridal couple expect to perform missionary work in Armenia.

MARTINS FERRY — Bobbed hair is to become more expensive after June 1. Local barbers at a recent meeting voted to increase the price of shingle-bobs from 75c to $1.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE—Miss Mary Gray McBride, chief deputy in the office of the Belmont county clerk of courts, yesterday announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for that office. Miss McBride served as deputy under three clerks. Only one Eastern Ohio county has a woman clerk of courts, that being Harrison where Miss Irene McNamee is the official.

OTTAWA—Mrs. Theresa Rechtine, who, with her husband, Barney Rechtine, operated a soft drink parlor here, was fined $1,000 and costs when she pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of intoxicating liquors. Moonshine was found packed in fruit jars in the Rechtine pantry. Fifty members of the W. C. T. U., at the call of J. C. Jones, vice president of the County Law and Order League, crowded the courtroom, to "see that Justice Eastman dealt out justice," as they announced.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE—Marion L. Snedeker, 15 is the youngest person to be graduated from a high school in Eastern Ohio this year. Miss Snedeker was graduated from the St. Clairsville school this week.

NELSONVILLE—It now seems that the union miners of the Hocking Valley will shortly meet the coal operators in joint session to talk over conditions and perhaps agree upon something to start the mines Recently the miners voted against holding such a joint conference.

GLOUSTER—Malicious persons wrought serious damage in the general store of J. V. Stecklein several nights ago. After making an entrance they pulled all sorts of goods from the shelves, piled them all six or seven inches deep on the floor, and then poured vinegar and molasses over the outfit.

LIMA—City officials have decided to issue city script for payment of police and firemen during the last six months of the year, when the city will be in such financial condition that payment can not be made in cash. When the first of January arrives, Lima will be morally in debt to the banks of the city for $49,200. The city paper will be issued against anticipated settlement of taxes for 1923 and will be redeemed at the banks by the city as soon as the settlement is made by the county auditor.

ELYRIA—Robert Grenshaw, Lorain, has been sentenced to serve ten years in the Ohio penitentiary for the killing of Wallace Moore in a crap game argument at Lorain. Grenshaw was indicted for second degree murder, but was permitted to plead guilty to the charge of manslaughter.

BUCYRUS—An additional state aid of $6500 for the improvement this summer of the Crestline Bucyrus road, seven miles long, has been secured by the county commissioners from the state highway department. This makes approximately $90,000 of state aid secured for this improvement.

COLUMBUS—Music in the public schools will be considered by speakers of prominence at the session of the Ohio State Teachers Association summer meeting at Cedar Point June 25, it was announced by Secretary Reynolds. "The Philosophy of Public School Music" and "The Future of Public School Music" are the subjects of two addresses for that day.

STOMACH REMEDY A FAST SELLER

DARE'S MENTHA PEPSIN

Six Thousand Bottles Sold In One New Jersey Town Last Year. Wimmer-Arnold Co. Declares Money Back if One Bottle Doesn't Make Any Stomach Sufferer Rejoice.

At last the way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time.

Why bother with slow actors when one dessertspoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, acidity, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish.

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or any stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

But there is more to say about this remarkable remedy—something that will interest thousands of despondent people.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin not only quickly relieves stomach distress, but it also conquers stubborn indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis and puts an end to dizziness, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness and despondency which distressing troubles are nearly always caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin is pleasant to take, has a delightfully refreshing taste and after it has put your stomach in a clean and healthy condition, just notice how much better you look and feel, for besides correcting stomach disorders this supremely good remedy that Wimmer-Arnold Co. and druggists everywhere guarantee, is a fine tonic that builds you up and makes you work with vim, eat with relish and sleep soundly.

This New Treatment Never Fails to End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES" One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

Wimmer-Arnold Co. dispenses MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in the original box or can get it for you on short notice.

German Cabinet Resigns; Riots Likely to Ensue

BERLIN, May 27.—Germany was without a cabinet when the new reichstag met today for its first plenary session As forecast yesterday by International News Service, the Marx government resigned last night and President Ebert accepted it.

On account of the strength of the two extremist wings—Nationalists and Communists, serious disorders were feared.

Officials were anxious that some of the 60 Communist members might start a hostile demonstration when General Erich Ludendorff, who was elected in Bavaria, entered to take his seat, or when he was called to the rostrum by the president to take the oath of office along with the other new members.

A strong police guard was placed about parliament building. Police officials announced that the strictest surveillance would be conducted over spectators and that those entering the spectators' gallery would be searched for arms

In addition to Ludendorff, another famous war-time figure takes his place in the hall of the legislators-Admiral Von Tirpitz, head of the German navy in war time and sponsor of Germany's submarine warfare

Ludendorff was alloted a seat in a corner close to two Hitlerite leaders.

Dr. Hellferich, who was formerly vice chancellor and one of the foremost authorities on finances in Germany was killed in a train wreck while returning to Germany from Italy lately

Another pliant "old guard," member is the grand nephew of Prince Bismarck, the "Iron Chancellor" under the first William. The German nationalists appointed several husky farmer members to act as his body guard in the event of attack by communists

The chief task before the reichstag is to debate the Dawes reparation plan. While the Marx government had accepted the plan, it is opposed by nationalists and communists It would be necessary to amend the Weimer constitution before the plan could be placed in execution in its entirety.

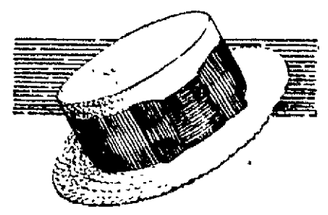

On the eve of the convening of the reichstag, the Lokal Anzeiger published a letter alleged to have been written by M Zinoviev one of the most aggressive members of the Internationale in Russia, to M. Krestinsky, Russian ambassador to Germany, urging him do work for the overthrow of the German government.

This document pointed out it is necessary to support America and Japanese communists to spread the red revolution to the far east.

COLLEGE OFFERS WAY TO SAVE BUILINDGS

Circular Tells How to Install Lightning Rods Properly

To guide Ohio farmers who want to protect their buildings from damage by lightning, the Ohio State University is issuing a three-page mimeographed circular on the proper installation of lightning rods. It is adapted from a bulletin by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Copper, says this circular, is usually the most durable material for rods In weight it should be at least 3 ounces to the foot. For ground connections, rods need to go down far enough to reach perpetual moisture, usually about 8 feet.

On an oblong building, at least two rods are necessary, on an L- or T-shaped building, at least three, on a U-shaped building, at least four. Ground rods should not be bunched, but should be distributed as much as possible

The system of installation is this "Run cable from ground up corner to eave, thence to ridge, along ridge to other end, thence down to eave, thence to ground, making a complete circuit All cables should be connected in one system. No stubs or dead ends should be left underground In attaching cable to barn, use nails, staples, or clips. Do not use insulators."

Other details are included in this circular. It may be obtained free by any Ohioan by writing to the Agricultural Engineering Department, Ohio State University.

"A museum in every high school" is a new slogan in Kansas Local history and the botany and geology of the respective localities are the subjects to be emphasized The collections are to be emphasized. The collections are to be made by the pupils to stimulate interest in their studies Many high schools have found museums so conducted to be of great value.

SCHOOL SAVINGS LARGE IN SMALL COMMUNITY

That the school savings system works as well in small communities as in the cities is demonstarted by the schools of Gilbert, Minn. Within 10 weeks from the day the first savings were deposited 1,950 out of the 2,066 pupils enrolled opened bank accounts, according to School Life, a publication of the Bureau of Education.

Detail work of the system within the schools is in charge of W. A. Pike, head of the commercial department. Within two months more he expects that every child will have a bank account Weekly and monthly reports showing the percentage standing of all the rooms are sent to every room in the district. They are also published in the local papers It has been provided that as soon as every pupil in a school opens an account the entire school gets a holida .

SMALL PLACES ALSO MAY DO THINGS WELL

LEWISVILLE WINS OPENER IN THE TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The Canal Lewisville baseball team was resting in first place in the Twilight League Tuesday as a result of their victory over the Pastime club at Red Sea last evening. The score was 9 to 8.

The Pastimes used two pitchers in an effort to check the Canal Lewisville onslaught, but failed. Parcell started on the hill for the pool room club, but was displaced in favor of Rodman.

McCabe went the full route for visiting club.

If the diamond is in good shape this evening, which is doubtful, the game between the All Stars and West Lafayette on the latter's diamond will be played.

Gibbons Trains Hard; Frenchman Takes it Easy

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., May 27.—For a boxing match with no title involved, this affair between Tom Gibbons and Georges Carpentier next Saturday is attracting more attention and stirring up more interest than anything like it in years.

The demand for seats has been so strong the promoters had to draw up plans hastily for additional seats. The former capacity of the arena was 26,000 but by Thursday night, it will have seats for 12,000 more.

An excellent demonstration of Tom Gibbons' condition was furnished when he worked out nine rounds yesterday and did a lot of the side stuff common in training camps. There did not seem to be a single ounce of fat on him that could be taken off.

There was little activity around the Frenchman's camp, tho Georges did sneak off, and do a few rounds on the back porch of his cottage at Long Beach.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must Be Done and Done Darn Quick, Too

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinney folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 60 cents a box. Ask Wimmer-Arnold Co., Siegrist & Williams, Page & Lorenz or any live pharmacist anywhere.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

Stanford Is Due to Take Honors in Field Events

(By DAVIS J. WALSH)

NEW YORK, May 27.—Track and field experts this side of the Alleghenies are pleased today to look with favor upon another California entry in the intercollegiate A. A. A. track and field championships, at the Harvard stadium this week-end.

For three destitute years and long, the east has seen one of its favorite possessions carried away over the mountain mesa on a trans-continental trip to a coast trophy room. For three successive years, the California Bear has been the winner against the best the east could summon.

According to the best advices, the proceeding is due to be repeated this year, not by the California Bear, but by another coast institution, namely Leland Stanford university. Stanford is said to have everything on its team except a circus fat woman.

First off, the Palo Alto entry figures to get away running with ten points on the shot put and discus throw; that is, unless Glenn Hartranft bobs up with a housemaid's knee or the heebie-jeebies. He has tossed the shot within a half-inch of the world's record and the discus a matter of 154 feet. You can't beat these performances with a horse whip and, figuratively speaking, the east is there with a feather duster.

Princeton is believed to be its best bet, largely because of its strength in the field events. The Tigers finished second to Yale in a dual meet, but should score heavily in the weights events with Hills, Beattie, Emery and several others. Yale, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Harvard have a smattering of talent ready to go, but all of them lack composite strength.

Tagging The Bases

The Yankees indulged in long-distance hitting to beat the Tigers in the final game, 8 to 2. Ruth knocked out his eleventh homer. Ernie Johnson sent out two four sackers.

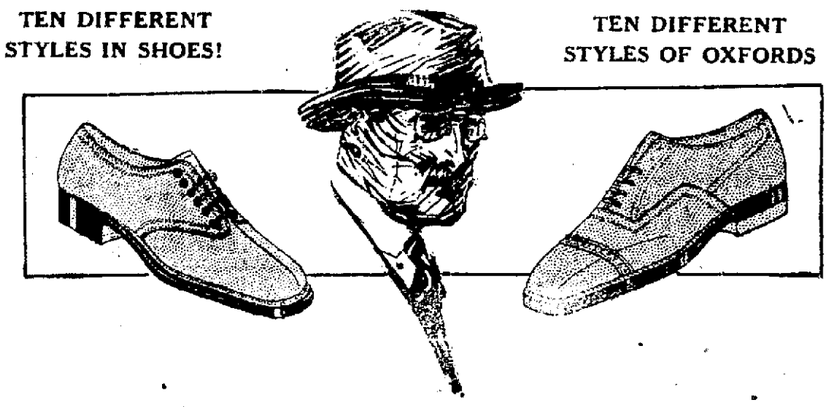

The Red Sox made it three straight over the Indians, winning 10 to 9. Thirty four players took part in the contest.

Ed Rommel not only pitched the Athletics to a 3-to-1 victory over the Browns but did it in the season's record time of 1 hour and 12 minutes.

The Reds not only lost to the Cardinals, 4 to 3, but lost the services of Fonseca, their second baseman, who suffered a broken arm while sliding to second in the seventh.

The Senators swatted the ball hard in winning from the White Sox, 8 to 2.

GOOD LOOKS GOOD HEALTH

WENDELL'S SALTS, AMBITION BRAND—that's the answer. Some of you ladies who read this may have complexion disfigured by liver spots and discolorations. If this is the case, don't worry about it and don't use face lotions. Just go at once to Wimmer - Arnold Company, Siegrist & Williams and get a large bottle of WENDELL'S SALTS, AMBITION BRAND, for only sixty cents. It will clear your complexion by helping to drive from your system the poisonous uric acid that is affecting your liver, stomach and kidneys. A poor, rough, mottled skin isn't due to the sun or weather, but to an upset condition which uric acid usually causes. Go to the root of the trouble. Destroy that and your good looks and health will return.

WENDELL'S SALTS, AMBITION BRAND, is a wonderful preparation for indigestion, biliousness, constipation, headache, rheumatism, malaria, nervousness, kidney troubles—when caused by uric acid poison.

Remember, WENDELL'S SALTS, AMBITION BRAND, is guaranteed by Wimmer - Arnold Company, Siegrist & Williams and dealers everywhere.

It is pleasant to take, acts quickly, and you can get your money back on the first bottle purchased if dissatisfied.

NINE SEAMEN DROWN WHEN SHIP IS LOST

CANSO, N. S., May 27.—Nine men went to their deaths in the cauldron of seas when the steam trawler Mikado was wrecked Sunday night on Cape Fouchu reef, it was learned today.

Seven survivors from the Mikado arrived here, bringing with them the body of one of the companions who died after being rescued.

Joint-Ease for Burning Feet

Now that we know that aching, burning feet are caused by troubles in the small bones in the arches of the feet—

And that trouble can only be reached by Joint-Ease, an active emolient that soaks right in through skin and flesh direct to the joints and ligaments.

Isn't it about time to discard powders and medicated baths that only reach the outside of the skin?

And rub on Joint-Ease, that in two minutes starts to soothe and heal the inside troubles that cause soreness and burning.

Rub it on tonight and if there is any burning left in the morning, it won't be enough to bother.

Always remember when Joint-Ease gets in foot agony and burning get out—quick—60 cents a tube.

Wimmer-Arnold Co. Sells lots of Joint-Ease.

LEMONS BLEACH THE SKIN WHITE

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Will Prove Alibi for Accused Man

NEW YORK, May 27—Alfred V. Norton, counsel for Harry L. Hoffman, will be able to prove a positive alibi for Hoffman, he announced today when he opened the defense for the accused motion picture machine operator in Richmond-co court, where Hoffman is on trial for the murder of Mrs. Maude Bauer.

He will be able to show, also, Norton said, that the clothing worn by Hoffman on March 25, when Mrs. Bauer's body was found in the brush beside a lonely Staten Island road, does not tally with that described by witnesses as having been worn by a man seen hurriedly driving away from the scene of the crime in a Ford sedan.

Finally found health in Kellogg's Bran after suffering long with constipation

Mr. Patch writes that Kellogg's Bran "solved his problem." It has solved the problem of constipation—mild and chronic—for thousands of others. It has brought relief when all else has failed because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read Mr. Patch's letter:

Dear Sirs:
I have been a constant sufferer from constipation and have wondered what was the cause of it. I have tried about all the cereals I could think of, and finally tried Kellogg's Bran. This solved my problem. I feel 100 per cent better and I owe it to your Bran. . . . Thanking you very kindly for this great cereal, I am
Very respectfully,
Chester C. Patch,
761 Main St., Greenwood, Mass.

For the permanent relief of constipation, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. It rids them of the dangerous poisons that lead to other diseases. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious with milk or cream. You will like its nut-like flavor—so different from ordinary, tasteless brans. Sprinkle it over the cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Eat it in Kellogg's Bran muffins, griddle cakes and many other wonderful recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek and is served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. It is sold by all grocers.

SOLDIERS

Missionary Ridge, and was later presented to the Ninety-Seventh Ohio Division.

C. P. Henry, the representative speaker from his group, was the first to speak. He told of the causes of the Civil War, the methods of forming companies in those days, and of how his own company was formed at Newark. He declared that Ohio furnished 350,000 men to take part in the conflict, and that of this number, only 8,750 were drafted. The period of reconstruction following the Civil War was spoken by Henry. He said that on next Friday, Memorial Day, the graves of 281 departed comrades will be decorated.

"Soldiers of the Spanish-American War are under-rated and are not given due consideration," said S. J. Cardwell in a short speech. He declared this to be an injustice, and said that in this conflict every soldier volunteered. Thirty thousand Spanish war veterans took part in the World War, he said.

"All great reforms are brot about by war," Cardwell declared. He contended that wars cannot be stopped by resolutions and peace plans. The disarmament plan was criticised. "Nations adopting a disarmament program are on the downward path," he said.

Joseph Shepler was the next to speak. He declared that "soldiers win wars and statesmen lose them." He said that soldiers sometimes criticise the government, etc., but that when they are called upon to defend their country they are found to be willing.

The Rev. W. M. Hart announced that the summer school will start in about two weeks, lasting over a four-weeks period. The school is held under the auspices of nine Coshocton churches, and will be held in different parts of the city so that every child will have an opportunity to attend. Rev. Hart has been asked to take charge.

Drive on Bovine Tuberculosis in Ohio is Started

A state-wide drive for the purpose of eradicating bovine tuberculosis in Ohio was recently started, according to bulletins from the state department of agriculture and the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The work is in charge of State Veterinarian F. A. Zimmer and a committee from the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Altho the majority of Coshocton-co's dairy and beef cattle herds have not yet been tested for tuberculosis, and the drive has not yet reached this county, several progressive Coshocton-co dairymen have realized the advantages of knowing that their herds are clean, and are now on the tuberculosis free list.

According to Dr. F. M. Butler, state authorized tester for this county, those who now have tested herds are C. E. Brome and Son, Joseph Slaughter, Spangler Sicker, Harley Miller, J. E. Lyons, George Gray, Samuel McGuire, Charles Thomas and Joseph Robinson. Alfred McConnell is also having his cattle put thru the tests necessary to place his herd on the accredited list.

During the month of April, 10,691 cattle were tested in Ohio according to the report of State Veterinarian Zimmer. Out of this number 718 reactors were found and 62 suspects. This covers activities in 12 counties.

It was announced last week that practically all cattle in Erie and Huron counties had been tested, while Medina-co is expected to be completed the latter part of this week.

As a means of acquainting farmers and stock raisers over the state with the great danger of bovine tuberculosis, the Ohio Department of Agriculture is making a motion picture film entitled "War On Tuberculosis of Cattle in Ohio." It will show the steps of the area plan of eradication as actually carried on in the field, including the testing of cattle, the disinfecting of premises, appraising of animals, and making of the tuberculin as carried on at the State Serum Institute. This film will be used as an educational measure in organizing and preparing all the counties of the state for the eradication drive.

The committee in charge of the drive is expecting to join with livestock and dairy producers and consumers in every county of the state to work toward effective legislation and administration in an effort to carry the drive to a state-wide eradication of tuberculosis.

SUCCESSFUL ORGANIZAT'N OF FIRST-GRADE TEACH'RS

Believing that the work of the first grade teacher is of supreme importance in adjusting children easily and happily to their educational environment, initiating good school habits and favorable emotional attitudes, and giving the mind its "set" toward eager, confident activity and sustained industry, the teachers of the first-grade schools of Worcester, Mass., organized the First Grade Club in September, 1922.

During the year 1922-23 the club formed a class for the study of special psychological problems in first-grade teaching. In 1923-24 the main task was the Educational Week demonstration. Numerous school affairs, spring and fall outings, teas, and dinners helped to integrate the club. Its main purpose, however, has been to keep before the public the needs and opportunities of this important period.—School Life.

S.S.S. stops Rheumatism

And with it pain and its probability of reaching the heart.

"My Rheumatism is all gone."

wonderful glory again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you." There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Gooding Bill is Forced to Front

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The democratic insurgent coalition won another victory in the senate this afternoon when it forced consideration of the Gooding bill providing for a federal investigation of "railroad propaganda."

The measure authorized the interstate commerce commission to investigate the amount of money spent by railroads for advertising, propaganda, or any other use for the purpose of creating favorable public sentiment. The bill was brot out by a vote of 41 to 19.

CONFERENCE ON NEGRO LAND-GRANT COLLEGES

Presidents of nearly all of the negro land-grant colleges and leaders in agricultural, industrial, and home-economics education from the land-grant colleges attended the Fourth Southern Conference on Education in Negro Land-Grant Colleges recently held at Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. The conference was called by the United States Commissioner of Education, in co-operation with the Federal Board of Vocational Education and the Association of Land-Grant Colleges for Negroes.

The main purpose of the conference was to study critically the courses in mechanic arts and industries, with the idea of bringing the trade courses to a plane that will meet the standards of the trades and trade organizations, and to adjust the collegiate courses in mechanic arts so that they will have more significance from a technical as well as a cultural aspect.

Good Night Stories

DORIS SEES A QUEER COURTSHIP.

ONE day as Doris was out hunting pussy willows she heard a flock of birds chattering so gaily that she hid among the bushes to try to learn what the merriment was about.

Soon she saw at least fifty black-coated birds with gorgeous red feathers on their jet-black wings flitting back and forth over the marshes.

"What in the world are they all chattering about, I wonder" mused Doris. But before she could finish her sentence a dear little elfin stood before her.

"Oh, Squeedee," cried Doris, "I'm glad you came." She shook the wee elfin's hand. "What kind of birds are those and what are they talking about?" she asked.

One of the birds, at the sound of Doris's voice, glanced up, then, spying Squeedee, flew straight over to the pussy willow bush in front of Doris and tipped his pretty black head politely.

"Well, well, Squeedee, I suppose you've come to see what kind of a mate I'm going to choose," he chirped merrily.

"Oh, is that what all this fuss is about?" laughed the elfin. "Well, Doris, we came just in time. You see, Mr. Red-winged Blackbird and his friends are waiting to choose their mates."

"We Came Just in Time."

"Yes, it's a custom with us," laughed Mr. Red-winged Blackbird merrily, "to choose our mates when the pussy willows bud."

"Oh, goody!" cried Doris. "May I stay and watch you?"

"There's no reason why you shouldn't," chirped Mr. Red-winged Blackbird. "They should be here most any second, now. Here they come." And he flew back to join his friends.

A dark line of birds flew around the trees, and before Doris could even think down swooped a great flock of rusty, blackish-brown birds with such a clatter and chatter that Doris had to hold her ears for a second.

The little blackish-brown birds had traveled a long way and were tired. The bright red-winged birds each picked out a little traveler that appealed to him, then perching himself at his sweetheart's side, sang a gay love-song, until the marshes fairly rang.

When each songster had chosen the mate he wanted the others spread their wings and flew away.

"Now," whispered Squeedee in Doris's ear, "they will fly to the next marsh. Maybe more red-winged blackbirds will be waiting for them there. It's a queer way to court, but, after all, I think rather a nice way."

One by one Doris watched the happy couples fly off together. She laughed aloud when the last had taken flight.

"They do lots of damage to the farmers' fields, but I guess the good they do in destroying injurious insects makes up for what they eat," said Squeedee. Then he bade Doris good-by and disappeared.

Doris plucked some lovely pussy willow boughs for her teacher, then she hurried on to school.

WORDS of WISE MEN

One fact is better than a hundred analogies.

It is certain that either wise bearing or ignorant carriage is caught as men take diseases one of another; therefore, let men take heed of their company.

Consult the lives of other men as you would a looking-glass, and from thence fetch examples for your own imitation.

* * *

Choose the company of your superiors whenever you can have it; that is the right and true pride.

* * *

Architecture is the printing press of all ages, and gives a history of the state of the society in which it was erected.

* * *

An instinct is an agent which performs blindly and ignorantly a work of intelligence and knowledge.

The intellect of the wise is like glass; it admits the light of heaven and reflects it.

He that judges without informing himself to the utmost of which he is capable, cannot acquit himself of judging amiss.

* * *

He that does not know these things which are of use for him to know is but an ignorant man, whatever he may know besides.

* * *

Knowledge of men and manners, the freedom of habitudes and conversation, with the best company of both sexes, is necessary.

* * *

Frequent consideration of a thing wears off the strangeness of it, and shows it in its several lights and various ways of appearance, to the view of the mind.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Warning for Lillian That Dicky Gave Madge.

AT Dicky's questions concerning Lillian I felt my mental bristles rising exactly—I told myself contemptuously—as might a wary old cat in the presence of something she did not understand.

But my common sense told me that while his first query concerning her reasons for staying in our apartment while we were away was a perfectly natural one, the last one was strained and justified my suspicion that he wished to learn Lillian's attitude toward the Marks family, and their beautiful protege, Mollie Fawcett.

There must be no hint of my suspicion in my answer, however; I knew my husband's uncertain temper well enough to skirt that precipice, and I waited until I was sure my voice was absolutely unruffled before I answered.

"I don't think she's given them a thought," I replied mendaciously, then put a query of my own in apparently idle fashion.

"Why should she do any 'sleuthing stunts' in that direction? I know you're prejudiced against the Markses, but I think you're wrong, and I'm sure Lillian hasn't seen anything amiss with them. What opportunity has she had to observe them, even if she had any suspicion concerning them?"

"Prejudiced against them! I?" Dickey retorted, patently seizing upon the words which struck him forcibly. "Where d'you get that stuff? Because I didn't take to the cut of Petey's jib, and the buzz-saw voice of his spouse, is that any reason why I should think them a bunch of crooks needing an eminent investigator on their trail?"

Madge's Memory Wakes.

He was actually shouting the last words, and I felt a little shiver stealing down my spine as I realized that the idea of Lillian investigating the Marks family was not only distasteful to him, but actually alarmed him.

All the suspicions engendered by Dicky's absorbed interest in Mollie Fawcett—suspicions which I determinedly had crushed, scoring myself savagely for what I termed my senseless jealousy—sprang suddenly into hydra-headed life again.

What did Dicky know concerning the doings of the family in the rear, and how had he obtained the knowledge? Of course, I realized that there was no element of consideration for the Marks family in the concern he was unconsciously manifesting. But that he was genuinely concerned over Lillian's possible investigations was evident, and there was but one possible conclusion. There must be something queer on foot, to put it mildly—something in which Mollie Fawcett was involved, and my husband knew what it was, and feared for her.

My memory flew back to the night when Dicky had come home with a wound upon his head bound up with handkerchiefs and a scarf which I later had discovered to be Mollie Fawcett's. Indeed, Dicky had admitted as much when I taxed him with the embarrassing fact only the night before, and I should not soon forget his savage anger at my discovery.

"A Flea in Lil's Ear."

Difficult, indeed, was it for me to hold my temper and my poise and answer him equably. But I knew that I would gain no information by anger. Besides, within a few minutes we should be at the farmhouse, where Dicky's mother was eagerly awaiting our arrival that she might finish her preparations for her trip with her son to her daughter Harriet's home in Michigan.

That she was extremely nervous and her temper uncertain, or, rather, certainly bad, I was sure, and I was firm in the determination to do nothing which would upset her before her journey.

I decided that an apparent misunderstanding of his meaning would serve me best, and I spoke with apparent pettishness.

"What's the use of flying off the handle like that?" I demanded crossly. "I didn't mean you thought them crooks. I simply said you didn't like them. You've certainly said that times enough."

"Neither do I." Dicky swallowed the bait, evidently deciding that this was his chance to make his annoyance appear plausible. "That female with the calliope voice and her rat husband sure do get on my nerves. But that doesn't mean I think them crooks.

"However," he went on, "I should worry what happens to them. I believe you ought to put a flea in Lil's ear, though, if you think she really is investigating them. She'll only make herself ridiculous."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, MAY 28.

An auspicious planetary rule dominates on this day in all that pertains to business or workaday affairs. Under a benignant Jupiter, there should be increase and expansion of business, as well as satisfactory financial returns. Under a sway of the luminaries also, those in the employment of others may hope for recognition or advancement if undeniably deserving.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of growth in business, with increase of money, but they may encounter anxieties in domestic affairs or in the affections. Those in the employment of others should work for advancement. A child born on this day will be successful in its undertakings, find its ambitions fulfilled and will rise to good position largely by its own industry.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Grief, Sunshine and Strawberries

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

WE all felt dreadful about it. Mary, the emotional, said her head ached so she couldn't see.

Isabel, the feather-headed, laughed hysterically, and Catherine-the-serious sighed and shook her head.

And we all felt as if there really wasn't much use in trying to be happy in a world where such things happen.

But the woman who has lived through a great deal said, "Excuse me," and left the room for a few minutes. In a little while she called us out to the balcony and on the balcony she had set a little tea kettle with the bright yellow cups and saucers and the funny little yellow teapot with the knobby spout and the crooked handle and there was a bowl of yellow pansies in the middle of the table and there were four yellow plates and four glass saucers and in the middle of the table was a plate heaped high with snow-white biscuits and there was a great dish of scarlet strawberries and a pitcher of yellow cream and a bowl of white sugar and the nicest fresh butter you ever tasted.

A Wondrous Transformation

And we all sat down in the sunshine and ate strawberries and cream and hot biscuits—why, they were as light as feathers!—and drank fragrant tea and talked about the way the roses were beginning to bud and how sweet the lilacs were. And somewhere a thrush started to sing his evening song and the soft shadows began to creep over the sky, lilac and rose, and the first evening star sparkled in the sky like a lovely jewel and we were a little comforted.

And afterward the woman who has lived through much sorrow told me about it.

"I used to luxuriate in grief," she said. "I thought I couldn't help it, and when things happened that made me sad, I just reveled in being as sad as I could and I thought about it and talked about it and read sad poems and sang sad songs, but when I grew older I found that there are a good many sad things in life, and somehow if you didn't look out they over-balanced the happy things and then they began to weigh you down and I learned to take pleasures and comfort in little things.

"I learned to cultivate the joy of the passing moment.

"Now we couldn't do a thing to make that tragic business that worried us all so, any better the other day. Not one of us.

"So when we had talked it all over, I just slipped away and made the biscuits and set the table. And, somehow, just while I was doing it, the iron band that seemed to bind my heart so cruelly, eased a little, and by the time the table was set I felt quite normal again.

"And didn't you notice how we all cheered up—together?

"And we needed that cheer and those at home waiting for the rest of us needed it, too—oh, yes, it's the only way to get through a time like this! Do what you can to lift the burden of the tragedy, whatever it is, and then turn your mind and your energies to something pleasant, something beautiful, or anyhow something kind of cozy and comfy.

"I'm going to eat strawberries and cream whenever I get a chance and give them to other people to eat, too, even if there is a storm brewing, and I don't quite know whether I have a big enough umbrella to protect me from the storm on my way home—or not."

So now I know why the woman who is acquainted with grief always knows how to find a smile. Now I know how she has managed to live through years of sorrow and crushing grief that would have completely annihilated most people.

If We Just Look

There's a bit of sunshine somewhere, if we just look for it, isn't there?

Oh, yes, of course, sometimes it's a relief to go right down into the depths and have a good hard weep—and done with it!

But when you've dried your eyes and washed your face and combed your hair, my dear, whoever you are, put on a fresh little frock and set your little table in the pleasantest nook in your little house and call in your neighbors and have some strawberries and cream—and see how much better the world will look to you—and to her.

Strawberries, no, I suppose they're not the least bit of use as far as food goes, but somehow He made them, didn't he, for all that?

I'm glad He did—aren't you?

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Smart Coat.

"I WANT a wrap in the very newest shade," a young client announced to Madame this morning.

Madame has been designing a great many wraps lately. Every one who goes away for the Summer seems to need several.

"Well, the newest wrap I'm showing is in cinnamon shade," Madame informed her.

"It's a smart original model and I think you'd probably like it very much," she added.

This piqued the client's curiosity, and I was sent to don the coat.

It was made of material of beautiful quality, such soft woolen fabric that it felt almost silky.

"She ought to look well in this," I remarked to the wardrobe mistress as she fastened the model up close at my throat.

"What coloring has she?" the wardrobe mistress asked. Her work of supervising the clothes that we don keeps her confined to the manikins' room, and she has little opportunity to see the various clients who come and go.

"She has dark hair and very pretty skin," I said. "It takes the latter to wear this cinnamon tone," I added.

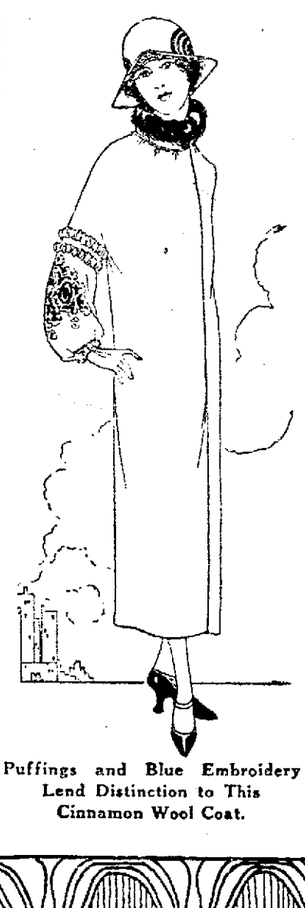

"You're flattering yourself, for it looks extremely well on you," the wardrobe mistress informed me as she gave me a last pat and sent me out.

"What a perfect fit through the shoulders!" the young client exclaimed as I advanced toward her.

"You see, it is made all in one piece through the shoulders," Madame explained. "That's what gives the smart appearance."

"Do come over nearer," the client said to me. "The touch of bright blue at the sleeves takes my eye. I must see what it is."

"Embroidery done in wool threads," I informed her as I advanced in her direction.

Puffings and Blue Embroidery Lend Distinction to This Cinnamon Wool Coat.

"And those adorable puffings!" she exclaimed.

She referred to little puffs of the cinnamon material. Two encircled the sleeves above the embroidered design, and another finished the cuffs.

"I like everything about it, including the little snug-fitting collar of Summer ermine," the client announced.

"I think it will fit you exactly," Madame said. "If it does, you may buy it as it is," she added. "It is fairly late in the season for coats and the ones I'm making now are strictly of the sports type, so I shan't make any more like that."

"I can't wait to see," the client enthused.

It fitted her quite as well through the shoulders as it did me and, of course, she ordered it sent up to her.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl twenty-two years old and I love a young man more than twenty-one years old. He says he loves me and has asked me to marry him, and I wish to. My father doesn't want me to ever marry. My sisters and brothers don't want me to marry either. My mother is dead.

I love the young man and wish to marry him. Would you please give me your advice? I don't want to be an old maid.

If I can't marry that man I'll never live happy, and the man says the same.

BROKEN HEART.

BROKEN HEART: You are old enough to decide this question for yourself. Think the matter over very carefully. Study the man well and make sure that you love wisely. Perhaps it will be just as well that you wait a while and test your love for one another—after all, the man is very young.

After all these tests, if you still are certain that your happiness depends upon your marriage to this man, marry him! But meantime, and this is of paramount importance, do everything you can, through sweetness and affectionate talks, to win your father to your point of view. The young man you love should also try to win your father's regard. Remember, your father loves you dearly.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

YOUR HEALTH

Rest with Regularity and Avoid Neurasthenia

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

"DOES monotony create neurasthenia?" an eager friend halted me to inquire the other day.

"Why do you ask?" I countered, because it sometimes is not wise to admit the correctness of a perfectly exact general statement.

"One of your ardent readers last night told me she had read a statement to this effect that you made a year or so ago. Now, I have always thought that nervous breakdown did not come from the monotony, for instance, of the country, no matter how bleak and lonely a farm might be. I believed it invariably had its roots in the things, the life one finds in cities."

Both my friends are right. But neurasthenia also comes from causes found deep in the make-up of the one who suffers the breakdown. The conditions of modern life may have little or nothing to do with the collapse. Had these persons been born in a less swiftly changing age, their lack of adaptability might have caused no comment.

You must be adaptable to live successfully. You must be able to adjust yourself speedily and easily to changing surroundings and different conditions. Otherwise there will be friction, and friction cannot be long endured without harm.

The symptoms of neurasthenia vary in every sufferer. But loss of ability to go about the ordinary duties of life is perhaps common to all such persons.

For instance, the expert accountant cannot add, the motorist cannot drive his car because he is afraid, even the dressmaker fears to ply her needle. Other workers find equal difficulty in working at their particular trades.

Continued inability to sleep, fitful sleep, dozing off just as it is time to get up, and, worse than all, getting up in the morning more tired than when you went to bed, are signs of neurasthenia. Flitting pains, headache, eye disturbances and difficult breathing, often accompanied by profuse sweats, palpitation of the heart and a throbbing sensation in some part of the body, are other well-recognized "signs."

The first step toward recovery is to rouse the patient from mental depression and the common fear that there is no hope for a cure. Change of scene, meeting old friends and new acquaintances, relief from the daily routine and plenty of recreation will stimulate the interest and help the sufferer to forget his troubles.

But why allow yourself or a loved one to sink into such a state? It can be avoided by sensible regulation of habits. Systematic hours of work, wise vacations at the proper and needed time—these are most important.

As you well know, the honest worker is worthy of his vacation. Even though you labor for yourself, you are entitled to a vacation, whether it is taken each week-end or for several weeks or months as the case may be.

Answers to Health Questions

JERRY L. Q.—I am a girl twenty-one years old. For the past year I have noticed small white pimples on my face, not very noticeable and yet my skin feels rough. What would you advise?

A.—This is probably acne. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question for full particulars on this inquiry.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

Brief Stories of the Men and Women Who Led the Way

By MARK STUYVESANT

Those to Whom We Owe the Wonders Electricity Performs.

THE discoverer of electricity was not Benjamin Franklin, as many think. Franklin found that electricity and lightning were the same thing. It was a scholar of Queen Elizabeth's time who gave a name to the intangible fluid that was created in amber when warmed by friction. He was William Gilbert who was born in 1603 in Colchester, England, and who devoted most of his life to making experiments with this unknown force. Gilbert called electricity by its name simply because it was most readily discovered in amber, and the Greek name for amber is elektron. During his experiments, Gilbert found that electricity could be generated in sulphur, sealing-wax, gems, solid resin and rock salt, and when electrified they would attract metals, stones, and even heavy smoke.

Gilbert was called the Father of the Electrical Science. Yet his information did not enable him to accomplish anything of importance.

Professor Musschenbroek, of Leyden, was the first to find out that it was possible to store electricity. He invented the Leyden jar, a jar of water covered with a metal stopper, through the center of which ran an iron rod. Having charged this water with electricity, he found out that it would remain and could be drawn upon when wanted.

Sir William Watson of London, about 1750, found out that he could conduct electricity from one Leyden jar into another by means of an iron wire.

Then came Benjamin Franklin, whose study of electricity had caused him to suspect it was the same force as lightning. His experiment of sending up a kite in a thunderstorm is known to every schoolboy. Franklin filled a Leyden jar with the electric fluid conducted down the string of the kite. As a result of this information, Franklin invented the lightning rod, which caught bolts of lightning, led them away from a house and down the rod into the ground. This was by far the most momentous discovery up to that time made in electrical science.

There followed a long line of scientists, including Henry Cavendish and Lord Kelvin in England, Alessandro Volta, who invented the electric bell; Professor Oersted, of Denmark and Michael Faraday, son of a London blacksmith, all of whom advanced the science until it had reached a point where Professor Morse was able to use it for the electric telegraph.

The development of electrical machines to produce power, heat and light is comparatively modern, and Thomas Edison's contribution to this modern electrical development has been enormous.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Here's a New Profession—Home-Making and Mothering.

HOME-MAKING is at last being recognized as a profession and has ceased to be judged by the perfect loaf or the sewing of a fine seam. The modern girl who is looking forward to having a home of her own in the not-far-distant future busies herself with the study of home appliances to make work easy and save steps and energy. She takes a course in interior decorating, studies laundry lore, household buying, budget systems, perhaps takes a course in plain cooking and home buying. In fact, she makes herself a competent partner in the ownership of a home.

The better manager she becomes the more time she will have to take up and do the things she has always wanted to do. If a professional career of some sort is her ambition, she is better fitted to follow it after her all-around practical training than when she was unskilled in anything really useful.

Mothers are waking to the fact that their daughters as well as their sons must have professional training. Girls don't sit down nowadays and wait to marry for a home. They work and earn a home. If marriage comes along and they wish to accept it, well and good. They have knowledge and experience of value to bring to the solving of its many problems. If not, they manage to live a full and happy life in single blessedness. No one minds being an old maid in these modern times.

Some mothers who are qualified to do so begin early with their girls and give them their domestic science course right at home and they don't even know that they are having it. Others have to acquire their knowledge of housekeeping in the schools. Get this knowledge they must, for home economics today is the watchword of an ideal home life, freed from many traditions of the past.

Today, if you have not a definite profession, you are out of fashion and feel apologetic for having neglected talents that you might have developed.

Home-making is a profession, but mothering is, after all, the greatest of all professions. Our opportunities are so great to teach our children that it is appalling to see how frequently these opportunities are neglected. We hear of instances of a mother and daughter going through a class of interior decorating together, of brother and sister going through their law studies and opening offices together, of girls who become their father's confidential stenographers and of other cases of the kind, and it is safe to wager in these cases that there has been the right kind of mothering to start things going in the right direction.

It is not great wealth that gives the impetus to ambition, it is the right spirit of helpfulness in early training. We cannot teach if we have never learned. Mothering is part instinct and part education. It is her underlying love for and pride in her children that keep a mother lighting the candle of ambition in them when it flickers. Once lighted, it burns to a purpose.

Whatever we want to be, we must work to be. Early teaching in the home where the mothering is right is the greatest part of our education. It behooves every woman looking toward marriage to learn mothering.

World Use Of The Dollar

FINANCIAL yardsticks have not been the same in the United States and Europe since the world war. Not a nation across the Atlantic has been on an unrestricted gold basis. Even Great Britain almost six years after the conflict still finds its resources impaired to such an extent that the pound sterling stays below its par. France, Germany, Italy and all other continental powers are far deeper in a currency morass. What that has resulted in is summed up by the Vossische Zeitung in Berlin:

> No European country is now liquidating its trade balances thru movements of gold. Such adjustments are contingent upon mutual confidences in the respective paper currencies and running credit balances.

Commerce, if it is to move with a minimum of friction and a maximum of benefit to all concerned, must have a uniform measure of commodity value. In practice gold has been found to be the best medium. The inability of continental countries to sustain the gold standard is a drag on progress everywhere. It is not that there is less gold in existence, but that too much of it is in America.

The post-war accumulation of gold in the United States, unless it is put to use thru sensible distribution, is a deterrent to material advancement. The advisory council of the federal reserve board urges an amendment of the board's rules that may be necessary to facilitate that work. It says:

> Unless America finds ways to permit her excessive banking strength to benefit other countries, particularly those striving to bring their houses in order, the dollar can not maintain its position as a world standard of exchange, and foreign countries—and even American banking and commerce—will once more become dependent upon and tributary to the pound sterling, to the greater exclusion of the dollar.

Nothing could be more idle, certainly, than "to preach the use of the dollar, unless, at the same time we render it possible for other countries to avail themselves of our dollar facilities." Assuming that the plan worked out by Charles G. Dawes and his associates to rehabilitate Germany and enable it to pay reparations will prevail, the council says:

> The council recommends that when the new German note issue bank provided in the Dawes plan is organized, the federal reserve banks take the steps necessary in order to facilitate the rediscounting in this country of properly protected German gold bills, be it thru the intermediate of American banking institutions or thru so-called agency agreements or such other arrangements as have been concluded by federal reserve banks with central banks of other countries.

Measures of that sort—which will call for the sympathetic assistance of the federal government—will bring the one-half of the world's minted gold now in this country into active use. By facilitating an approach to the gold standard everywhere it will encourage general trading. So American foreign commerce will expand, just as in the past that of Great Britain was aided by respect for the pound sterling. "The Anglo-Saxons," says one commentator, "still held the whip hand, but they are not European Anglo-Saxons; they are the sons of the former English colony."

An Historic Church Assembly

CHARACTERIZING the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session at Springfield, Mass., as the "most remarkable body that has met in this country in a half century," The Akron Beacon-Journal in its issue of last Friday justifies its statement by a review of the work of the Conference to that date. We quote from its comment:

> In one resolution after another it has swept away many of the cowbwebs that have been obscuring the vision of religious bodies, and with fine courage it has met facts as they exist and instead of flanking, came to grips with them. If it had done no more than reunite the church that has existed in two divisions since the Civil War it would have deserved well of the country. However, its most splendid work, it hardly needs to be said, is the fearless way in which it is insisting on discussing the most important of all questions, war. Whatever its formal decision may be does not matter so much at this time since it has generated the courage to discuss the question in all its implications.
> The Christian religion has been on earth almost two thousand years. Authentic history reaches back perhaps two thousand years more. During that four thousand years peace has reigned on earth only during two hundred and twenty four years. If the church has known and disapproved that fact it has never done anything except in sporadic cases to indicate it. In fact as hard as it is to say so the church has been little better than the humble handmaiden of war. Nor have her crusades and jehads been preached in the cause of real righteousness. She has stood ready and has sanctioned and blessed wars for the supression of human freedom, to promote slavery, and to light the fires of persecution. The medieval priest who pronounced the blessings of God upon the freebooting baron setting out upon an expedition of rapine, murder and plunder was not a whit more inconsistent than has been his brother of modern times.
> In whatever country and under all circumstances the state has found no difficulty in gaining the [illegible] and the enthusiastic cooperation of the church for war. Thou shalt not kill has been only a [illegible] applied in individual cases. Thou shalt not kill one man in peace but thou shalt kill as many as possible in war has been the actual position of the church. Jesus Christ did not say that [illegible] preachers have been saying it now for almost two [illegible] And the remarkable part about it is that the [illegible] of state allegiance has been saying it [illegible] as the church did when it depended upon [illegible] its daily bread.
> In other words the pol[illegible] and make wars have had no [illegible] church than they did when they supported [illegible] not going to say the [illegible] was [illegible] is getting the captains of industry [illegible] in the church and frequently [illegible] path the stuff and get the newspapers started to ballyhooing about the duties we owe to civilization. We are discussing a fact rather than attempting to analyze the reasons for it, and for the point it is not necessary to go beyond the illogical conduct of the most important organization in the world which has used its vast influence in preaching peace only in times of peace and when it was not needed.
> Our joy in seeing the Methodist church grapple with just this phase of the situation is almost inexpressible. One fine intellect after another has met the situation fairly and squarely and has used words of denunciation of its own sins far harsher than we are going to use. They have emphasized the utter absurdity of the position of the church, its complete stultification and have pointed out the irremediable calamity to civilization that has resulted from such policies.
> It is true that this fine resolution has not yet passed the conference. It is true it may not pass it. The voice of mammon is still strong in the ears of the church. The munition makers, the profiteers and all the other hundred percenters are shining lights in the church and in society. Not even the killing taxation they have brot upon themselves has yet swept the cobwebs out of their befuddled brains. Ephraim is still wedded to his idols and for a time yet they must go on advocating the same old blood lust that has blurred the soul of man since he first emerged from the dark depths of his cave with a club, to conquer, no doubt in the name of patriotism, his neighbors, and to appropriate their belongings.
> Civilization moves slowly. In fact in its moral development it scarcely moves at all. But when such a fight can be fought as that now being waged in this conference it is the most hopeful sign of the times. Whenever all churches do what these Methodists are now trying to do, war will end without the aid of any peace conferences. The churches, and the churches alone, have the power to tell the governing politicians that henceforth the world's differences must be settled without a reversion to barbarism and when they do that wars will end

Railroad Brotherhoods Are in Quandary Whether to Support LaFollette or McAdoo for President

WASHINGTON, May 27—The latest bit of campaign strategy affecting the selection of a Democratic presidential nominee is interwoven with Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin. The McAdoo managers have started to spread the impression that if their leader is nominated, the Wisconsin senator will not run independently.

So far as can be determined from the LaFollette camp there is absolutely no guarantee that the senator will eliminate himself even if the Democrats nominate a man to his liking. But the railroad brotherhoods and their henchmen are quietly interesting themselves in the campaign and would do anything in their power to bring about the nomination of the former director general of railroads who was kind to them when he was in office. There would be no harm, it is reasoned in backing McAdoo at least up to the time of the Democratic convention for the decision by LaFollette does not have to be made until the Cleveland conference of July Fourth when leaders of the farm-labor group will meet to discuss their plan of campaign.

The talk that Senator LaFollette would like to have as a vice presidential nominee some one whom he could endorse if he did run independently is also a part of the effort to compel the Democrats to look to the radical and progressive wing of their party rather than to the conservative element for a nominee.

Naturally the McAdoo managers consider that their chieftain is the single progressive or radical eligible for LaFollette support but the Wisconsin senator would hardly approve any candidate who ran on a platform which did not include his pet issues like government ownership, something to which Mr McAdoo is opposed.

Reduced to its essence, nobody can control LaFollette, not even the Democratic national convention tho the railroad brotherhoods may have a good deal of influence with him when he maps out his campaign. The rail men would not wish to see any votes go to LaFollette unless it was apparent he had a good chance of victory for if he was likely to prove a bad third they would concentrate on the nominee who seemed more friendly to their program.

The fate of the Howell-Barkley bill in congress will have much to do with their attitude toward the Republican party and President Coolidge. To date the administration leaders have worked tooth and nail to prevent the measure from coming to a vote while a coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans in the house have upset the rules in forcing consideration.

On the whole it is more natural for the radicals to support the Democratic rather than Republican ticket this time for in practically all the important issues, the radicals and Democrats have worked together. The tax bill is their creation and farm legislation will probably come out of their united strategy. In a sense the Democrats have become the radical party and they will go to the country largely on the record made by their representatives in congress during the past few months.

Speaking of radicals and progressives, the friends of Governor Al Smith are eager to know since when he cannot be classed as a progressive. His record as governor has been progressive. The McAdoo men reply that Smith himself may be a progressive but that he is being supported by Tammany and conservative elements in the party—all of which however would be upset if two-thirds of the delegates voted for him. Al Smith could run on the platform of the convention as suitably as any other candidate. So could Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, another progressive and Senator Wheeler of Montana, talked for vice president—and Senators Walsh of Montana and Glass of Virginia. They all class themselves as progressives tho some of them might go slow about tieing up with LaFollette.

The next move must come from Senator LaFollette if he intends to influence the Democratic convention but the chances are he will remain silent until after he has gone thru the motions at least of trying to reform his own party at the convention which is to nominate President Coolidge. He will have ten days or more in which to speak then before the Democratic national convention begins its sessions.

New York Day-by-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 27.—I have just finished reading the first book of a rather obscure author. It struck me as being the most interesting volume I have ever read and I am hoping that a million copies will be sold. Yea even two million.

The book is called "White Light Nights" and was written by a fellow by the name of O. O. McIntyre who has the audacity to charge $2 for it. McIntyre dedicates the tome to his wife and the jacket announces that having been born in Plattsburgh, Mo. and raised in Gallipolis, O. he is "a typical New Yorker."

The volume is a series of stories dealing with his observations of life in New York by daylight and lamplight. He has written [illegible] romances of the White Way and has tried to turn the town inside out so that his readers [illegible].

The best thing in the book it [illegible] was a chapter called "Folks Back Home" which deals with the characters that he knew as a boy and which all of us who lived in small towns know. There are several places where McIntyre has done some sloppy writing and once he mixed a metaphor.

Still, taking the book by and large, it ought to be worth nearly what he asks for it, and aside from that there is a rumor that the author, as is usual with him needs the money. It is said McIntyre has lived in New York for 12 years.

Six years ago publishers tried to interest him in preparing a book. But chronic laziness checked all progress. Each year he would make the promise and then break it. If his book has a sale he will continue to write one each year, but if it does't sell "White Light Nights" will be his first and last volume.

George Abe, Irvin Cobb, Peter B. Kyne and Meredith Nicholson are among thise who have spoken praise for the book. It seems to me McIntyre might have offered the book for $1.50 instead of $2. After all he owes something to "his public."

McIntyre used to think the life of a novelist was a joyful existence. He thought all he had to do was plot his yarn, write it and sail for Monte Carlo and await the royalty checks. But that isn't the half of it. My, my no! He has to pose for photographers, write blurbs about himself, read and re-read proofs, autograph special editions for visiting book dealers, book reviewers, etc.

McIntyre dropped into Brentano's just to find out how his book was selling. He had faint hopes that when he entered the door clerks would stop work, nudge each other and whisper: "There he goes—the author of 'White Light Nights.'" So far as he could detect, however, business went on as usual. To an aisle manager he said: "Where will I find a copy of 'White Light Nights?'" He was directed to the counter and asked for the volume. The clerk whistled up a tube and one was brought to him.

"How is this book selling " he casually inquired.

"Very well," said the clerk, "when you consider the author is absolutely unknown."

Business of checking off an "Is that so?"

I never realized before that McIntyre was semi-humorous. His chapter on "My Luck With Chauffeurs" made me laugh several times I am inclined to believe, however, he was romancing. I am reliably informed he has never owned a car.

Several buyers have written the author the old wheeze: "I lost no time in reading your book." Another has said the book was absolutely priceless to hang before the shaving mirror as a substitute for a sheaf of shaving papers. New York reviewers have spoken kindly of the work, but one in Boston calls it "magnificent drivel." Boston, of course, would be that way.

Missouri's Democratic Delegation Is Flirting with Davis.

By JACK CEJNAR.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 27. — A move to line up Missouri's thirty-six delegates to the Democratic National Convention for John W. Davis, of West Viriginia and New York, with former Governor Frederick D. Gardner as Davis's running mate for the Vice-Presidency has been started by Gardner's friends and, according to their statements, is making considerable progress.

The effort to link Davis and Gardner together follows alleged threats made by some anti-McAdoo members of the delegation that they would refuse to obey the unit-rule instructions imposed by the recent State convention at Springfield, Mo. Joseph B. Shannon, Kansas City Democratic leader, and others who are opposed to McAdoo, are understood to have declared they would endeavor to have the delegation vote to discard the unit rule as soon as the Missourians reach New York.

The State convention resolutions permit the delegation to abolish the unit rule by a majority vote whenever it sees fit.

Do not fall in love after dinner if you want to digest your food!

This was the warning given to members of the St. Louis Advertising Club by John A. McGeoch, professor of psychology at Washington University, here.

"The exercise of any emotions after eating is injurious to digestion," Professor McGeoch said. "Any emotion naturally shoots all of the blood to the surface of the body. Then there is no blood left to digest food."

The professor explained that physical changes take place in the blood when some emotions, particularly love or anger, are appealed to.

"The liver releases a fine sugar, under stress of emotion, which travels through one's blood with a greater kick than that of a Missouri mule," Professor McGeoch warned, advising the after-dinner nap for all who wished to live long.

A number of the larger fruit growers in the region of Alto Pass, Ill., are losing their peach orchards this Spring, according to reports emanating from that district. The trees are in all stages of blight from a slight yellow turning of the leaves to those that are absolutely dead. This is a serious proposition for the Southern Illinois growers, reports say, as some of them will lose from 500 to 4,000 trees each.

Some of the orchards affected would have produced as high as 10,000 bushels of peaches this year, the growers claim.

The trees are supposed to be affected by a peach-tree borer exterminator which the growers have used for several years at the roots of the trees.

The charge that the cure is killing the trees is being denied by representatives of the Entomology Department of the University of Illinois, who have inspected the infected areas. They blame the weather.

DENVER, May 27—Colorado's "oil boom" has received an added impetuh from an extensive survey undertaken to ascertain the peterolcum possibilities by J. D. Sears, administrative geologist of the U. S. Geological Survey.

The survey is one of the most important ever undertaken in the West. Structures will be mapped, areas defined, and an effort made to establish the sand depths of potential oil wells.

A recent discussion of the probable oil supply in the United States has led to investigation of oil shale lands in Colorado. A commission appointed by President Coolidge has already visited several western states in its search for a future oil supply. While here the members of the commission—Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, Lieutenant-Commander M. C. Robertson and Rodney G. Bush—were told that the United States had sufficient oil shale to supply the United States Navy with oil for 2,000 years.

According to the United States geological experts, the Colorado oil shale fields would be of vital benefit to this country in the event of war. It has been estimated that the oil shale lands in the State contain 20,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

Present methods of extracting the fluid from the shale, however, are too costly for commercializing the industry.

The United States Bureau of Mines has been experimenting with oil shale for several years, and it is believed a method is nearing completion that will greatly lessen the cost of producing oil from the shale.

More than 40,000 acres of choice oil shale land in Colorado has already been set aside as a naval oil reserve.

A conservative estimate of oil content in the Colorado shale is 100,000 gallons per acre.

Peace officers of Colorado and Wyoming are experiencing much difficulty with the "auto tramp," a new species of mendicant who makes his way across country in a dilapidated automobile by begging food and gasoline en route.

Work on the construction of Denver's new athletic stadium is expected to get under way shortly, following selection of the site in City Park. The stadium is to be of reinforced concrete, will cost approximately $600,000 and have a seating capacity of 40,000. The city is donating the land and the massive structure will be financed thru public subscription.

Extensive preparations are under way for the first annual invitation tournament of the Denver Golf Tournament Association. It is expected between 300 and 400 golfers, including many of the crack players of the country, will participate.

QUARANTINE

My tin sedan was all ashine, my heart was light and gay; I drove up to the county line, upon an April day, and all the world seemed good and fine, and smooth and reshershay. "What ho," a stern official said, "let Lizzie cease to wheeze; we're posted here to stop the spread of foot and mouth disease; we must pour dope upon your head, and also on your knees." "Ods fish," I cried, in cheery tones, "get busy, then, I pray; deodorize my ancient bones, and fumigate my dray; then let me hit the paving stones, and journey on my way." They boiled my bus in caustic suds that turned the red paint black, they fumigated all my duds, poured acid down my back; and still I joshed those busy bloods, with merry quip and crack. A bitter job was theirs, I saw, a task that made them sore; to bring men up against a law that seemed to them a bore; the victims' nerves were tense and raw, they raved and wept and swore. I drove my wagon thru a trough, I waded in a vat, the acid burned my whiskers off, and spoiled my Sunday hat, but I'm the flippant sort of toff who laughs at things like that. And so the stern officials cried, as I went on my way, "We'll always point to you with pride, you are the cheer-up jay; you take the soup the gods provide, and do not whine or bray."

STATE FUNCTIONS OF EXPERIMENT STATION

Director Williams Says Station Must Give Attention to Marketing as Well as to Production of Farm Crops

"The work assigned to the experiment station by both the State and National Governments has to do with investigations and researches in agriculture, horticulture, forestry, and animal industry. In the past these investigations have had to do more with the production side than with the disposition and marketing of the products, tho it is now realized that the latter operations must be investigated in a very thoro way. Provision is made for this line of work by the Purnell Bill now before Congress.

"The work of the modern State Agricultural Experiment Station is very well outlined by national and state legislation. The Hatch Act, passed by the National Congress in 1887, sets out in considerable detail its various activities as concerned with investigational work with plants, animals, soils, fertilizers, and manures.

"By an act of our General Assembly passed in 1906, in addition to the above, it was made the duty of the Ohio Station to extend its work to forest investigations, including studies "into the character and extent of the forests of Ohio, causes of waste and decay, the species best suited to the different soils, best methods of propagating and managing wood lots, relative values of the various kinds of timber for different uses, etc."

"These several lines of investigation are being carried on at the central station, at the state-owned district farms, at the state forests, on rented fields and orchards, and in co-operation with private owners where special problems can be attacked to better advantage than on state-owned land.

"This investigational work is carried on in the field under natural and more or less uncertain conditions, and also in the laboratory under controlled conditions.

"The object of all these investigations is to discover scientific facts and principles, apply them to the practical problems confronting those engaged in agriculture, horticulture, forestry, and animal industry, and put them in intelligible form for publication in bulletins from time to time for the benefit of the citizens of the state."

The out-of-town friends who attended the funeral services Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Sarah Ann Hill Hursey, aged 90, were: C. E. McDermott, of Seville; Mr. and Mrs. David Smelts and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moore, A. Casteel, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett White and son, Archie, Mrs. Love, all of Canton; Attorney W. S. English and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Miller and daughter, all of New Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Berkshire, of Fresno; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Barthalow, of Coshocton.

Is Backache Making You Miserable?

You can't be happy when every day brings morning lameness, torturing backache and sharp, cutting pains. So, why not find the cause and correct it? Often it's weak kidneys. If you suffer headaches and dizziness, too,—feel tired, nervous and worn-out, help your weakened kidneys. Use Doan's a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. Are endorsed here at home. Ask your neighbor!

A Case in Coshocton:

Andrew Denney, millwright, in Eastern Lumber Co., 451 N. Eighth St., says: "I had a dull ache in my back. My back was always stiff and sore and often on getting up mornings it took some time to get my back limbered up. I was troubled with weak kidneys. I got Doan's Pills at Robertson's Drug Store and they relieved me."

Collection

is understood, is objecting to performing any work connected with the collection, unless adequate provisions are made for the same. Williams was not present last evening, but one visitor, speaking in behalf of the auditor, explained that Williams 'objections were voiced on the grounds that he woud be handicapped by the lack of sufficient office space and clerical help. The auditor's present duties require all the time and attention he can afford to give, and additional work would require more aid, it was explained.

Williams, in communication with authorities at Columbus, was informed that he could not be forced to help with the task of collecting, it was learned last night.

On the other hand, it was pointed out, if the work of collecting falls to the city treasurer, he also will need an office and sufficient clerical help. An office would be needed only for two two-week periods of each year, that is, between the first and fifteenth days of January and July, the time set for the payment of the tax, it was stated. The services of an accountant to assist the treasurer will be required the year round, it is believed.

The auditor and treasurer were advised to make a trip to Cincinnati, where the occupational tax has been in effect for some time, and where, it is believed they would get all the information needed.

An ordinance to proceed with the paving of South Tenth-st was given its first reading. An ordinance authorizing the transfer of funds from the general fund to the safety fund was passed.

Several residents of South Sixth-st again appeared before the council to ask that their street be improved. They were told that arrangements are being made to begin work of repairing soon.

All council members were present except Johnson Smith.

First Heresy

of creation, the divinity of Christ, and other miraculous stories set forth in the Old and New Testaments.

Whether he will be successful in this is problematical. The chances are against the court of nine bishops permitting him any such latitude. The court itself, and the church advocate, Charles L. Dibble, of Michigan, are desirous of making the trial of Bishop Brown as short and to the point as possible. It is even possible the advocate may merely ask Bishop Brown if he is the author of "Communism and Christianism," and, upon receiving an affirmative reply, rest the case forthwith. All of the heresies charged against Bishop Brown are contained in this book.

Bishop Brown bases his defense upon two major principles (1) That the court of nine bishops is powerless to try, or condemn him, a retired bishop, under canonical law, and (2) that his alleged errors of doctrine are simply his interpretation of the scriptures symbolically instead of literally.

"If the fact that I regard Jesus Christ as a symbo instead of an actual, living being is heresy," said the bishop, "Then all the bishops and leaders of the church for the past hundred years are tarred with the same brush, for none of them accepts all of the scriptures literally.

"If the church is so blind to modern thought and science that it will hark back to the bigoted and superstitious age of Elizabeth for authority and means of condemning me, it will not be it, but the church, that wil be condemned and destroyed in my trial."

It is no clash of the modernists and the fundamentalists, this trial of Bishop Brown. The modernists question only the literalness of the virgin birth and such kindred questions. Bishop Brown goes further, much further. He does not believe that Christ ever existed, he does not believe that God made the world as set forth in Genesis, he does not believe there ever was a God in the conscious personal sense, ether, he accepts it all as purely symbolical.

"I do not believe there ever was such a man as Santa Claus," he said today, with simple directness. "Yet I believe in, and admire, the spirit of Santa Claus, he is a beautiful symbol of goodness, kindness and charity. So with Christ. I do not believe he exister. Yet, I do believe in the symbolism of Christ, and that Christianism stands for goodness, kindness. It is a beautiful thing."

Bishop Brown styles himself a "rationalist" in religion, as differentiated from "modernist" and fundamentalist."

"There is no rational doubt," he says, "about the fictitious character of the divine Jesus.

"My God, nature, is a triune divinity--matter being the father, force the son, and motion the spirit.

"I have ceased to believe in the existence of a conscious personal divinity. Of course, my faith in the existence in a spiritual world, and hope for future life infi went with God.

"If yo nask khether I am still a professing Christian I shall answer yes, yet the Brother Jesus is not for me an historical personage, but only a symbol of all that is good in the world. Even as Uncle Sam of our American literature is not an historical personage, but only a symbol of all which is for good in the United States.

"Tho I make no pretensions of being a saint, I do calm that, other things being equal, I can be as good Christian on my athestic, materialistic lines as can any other member of the house of bishops on his theistic, spiritistic lines and I shall be much interested in attempts to prove such is not the case.

Bishop Brown dwells much on Santa Claus in the exposition of his new belief. To him, the mythical figure of St. Nicholas, and the equally mythical figure of Christ are one—both symbols of kindness and charity in a matrealists world. But he denies either ever lived.

The bishop would make a good Santa Claus. His rudy countenance is set in an oval of hair snow white, and he has a twinkly pair of blue eyes that dance almost mischievously as he extolls his new faith with an air of gentle seriousness.

His trial beings at 2 o'clock in Trinity Cathedral. The "prisoner's" dosk in which he faces his ecclesiastical accusers is scarcely a hundred yards from the high altar where, as a boy, he was baptized, and where as a young man, he was ordained in the priesthood.

"It's somewhat ironical, isn't it?" he smiled today as he talked f his trial.

The court is composed of nine bishops, headed by John Gardner Murray, of Maryland, who presides, and includes Frederick F. Deese, of Georgia; Edwin S. Lines, New Jersey; Theodore D. Brattan, of Mississippi; Benjamin Brewster, of Maine; William F. Faber, of Montana; Edward M. M. Parker, of New Hampshire; John N. McCormick, of Michigan; Herman Page, of Washington.

The church advocate is Charles L. Dibble of Michigan and assisting hi min the prosecution are John H. Smart, of Cleveland; Dr. Theodore B. Foster, of Chicago; Dr. George C. Foley, of Philadelphia; Dr. Haskall Dubose, of Sewanee, Tenn., and Henry D. Harlan, dean of the law school at University of Maryland.

Bishop Brown's defense will be directed by himself, Joseph W. Sharts, of Dayton, O., and Edward Bushnell of Cleveland.

The general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church which meets next autumn will have to confirm the decision of the trial court.

SYRUP PEPSIN
brought vigor by morning

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19,141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of two young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 319 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

You Can Have A Trial Bottle

The Radio Column

Timely Tips and Suggestions on the Latest Diagrams and Hookups—Simplified

BY CARLTON E. BUTLER,
Radio Engineer.

The present trend of radio construction is undoubtedly towards radio frequency amplification. This movement is not without good cause, for radio frequency has a number of excellent points in its favor.

The principle reason for the popularity of radio frequency amplification lies in the fact that distant signals are amplified before reaching the detector, with a result that a loud speaker can be used on many out of town stations. The use of radio frequency usually results in a clearer quality of music and an absence of tube noises. In audio frequency amplification various noises are picked up and amplified whereas in radio frequency only signals and atmospheric charges (static) are amplified.

Signals are undistorted and free from the hollowness of sound that characterizes the operation of a regenerative receiver near the oscillation point of the detector tube. The squeals and howls that are so numerous with the regenerative type of receiver will be greatly lessened.

Standard Parts Used

A great many of the three circuit receivers are of the variocoupler, two variometer type. To add radio frequency to this type of tuner will unduly complicate controls and use more apparatus than is really necessary. The circuit presented in this article makes use of a variocoupler and two variometers in a two stage radio frequency and detector unit. With a two stage audio amplifier the circuit becomes a five tube receiver.

The coupling method used is often called "tuned impedance" in contrast with resistance or transformer coupling. In many cases the design of radio frequency transformers is such that they will not provide efficient amplification over the wave length range of 220 to 600 meters. This is due to the fact that there may be marked peaks and depressions in the amplification range of the transformer, with the result that little, if any, increase of signal is obtained in such depressions. Receiving with transformer radio frequency coupling is usually unsatisfactory due to this reason.

With the tuned impedance method it is possible to tune each stage in resonance with the incoming wave so that a maximum of transfer of energy takes place. The obvious disadvantage is the addition of several controls.

What Circuit Will Do

A decided advantage of radio frequency amplification results from the fact that the effect produced on the detector by incoming signals is, in general, proportional to their square, that is, if the strength of the signal is doubled, the resultant effect on the detector is increased approximately four times.

The actual gain in volume with the use of radio frequency will not compare with that obtained with audio frequency but you should find the strength of distant signals increased by quite an amount.

Radio frequency requires careful workmanship to keep all leads short and direct as possible as to avoid a feedback of energy between the grid and plate leads of the tubes. This is important for best results.

Tubes May Block

Radio frequency circuits do not always function at their best when first connected up. They may require a little adjusting until finally brot up to the point of highest efficiency. The feedback of energy between the elements of the tubes or the wiring in the set may cause the tubes to block.

The word block is used to express what happens when the tubes break into self oscillation and temporarily prevent signals from going thru. The program will come in fine for an instant and then the tube will appear to shut off and the signal will cease. A moment later it will reappear.

In this case it will be necessary to use a potentiometer in the circuit. Conect the two outside contacts of the potentiometer to the positive and negative filament leads respectively. Connect the leads from the rotor of the variocoupler to the center contact in place of its going to the "A—" lead as shown in the diagram.

This will impose a slight positive potential on the grid of the first tube which should prevent the circuit from oscillating.

The cat whisker of a crystal set should not be too long. If it is too long external vibration or jarring will cause the whisker to change position on the surface of the crystal. A very light contact should be made between the cat whisker and the surface of the crystal.

If you have a burned out tube or can get one, use it as a guide when wiring up your new set. This will prevent your placing any wires too close or over a tube socket so that it will be impossible to insert the tube in the socket later on. When you wire around the socket, place the tube in the socket. You cannot hurt it if the screwdriver slips, and you have a guide to keep the wires properly spaced.

TUBE ACTION EXPLAINS TERMS

By CARLTON E. BUTLER,
Radio Engineer.

One of the most puzzling things about radio is the action and function of the vacuum tube. In discussions on new circuits and tuning a number of large words are used that mean little unless you understand just what takes place in the most important unit of your receiver—the vacuum tube.

Although these words are frequently used, it is almost a certainty that they are not well understood, either in meaning or application in a practical manner. To fully explain the meaning of every technical word and phrase as it was used in the description of a new circuit would become very tiresome to the average reader.

To fully comprehend the meaning of many terms used in radio we must go back to the beginning and start from the action of a vacuum tube as it functions in a circuit.

The three element vacuum tube contains three separate electrical units, the filament, the grid, and the plate. Of these the filament is probably the most important and certainly is well known to the average fan due to the fact that it is one of the few things that can actually be seen in action.

The filament of a vacuum tube is one of the few things about a radio receiver that will wear out and require replacing. As this necessitates a new tube, the filament of the tube is usually treated with respect.

The filament is composed of a fine metal wire which, when heated, emits small particles from its surface called electrons. These electrons are present in all metals and are constantly in motion. When the metal is heated their movement becomes so violent that some of them leave the surface of the metal. The surface of some types of filaments is coated with certain oxides which have the property of emitting electrons at a very low temperature, and thus increase the rate of emission.

MRS. BUSH TELLS OTHER WOMEN

How Pains in Side and Dragging Down Feelings Were Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

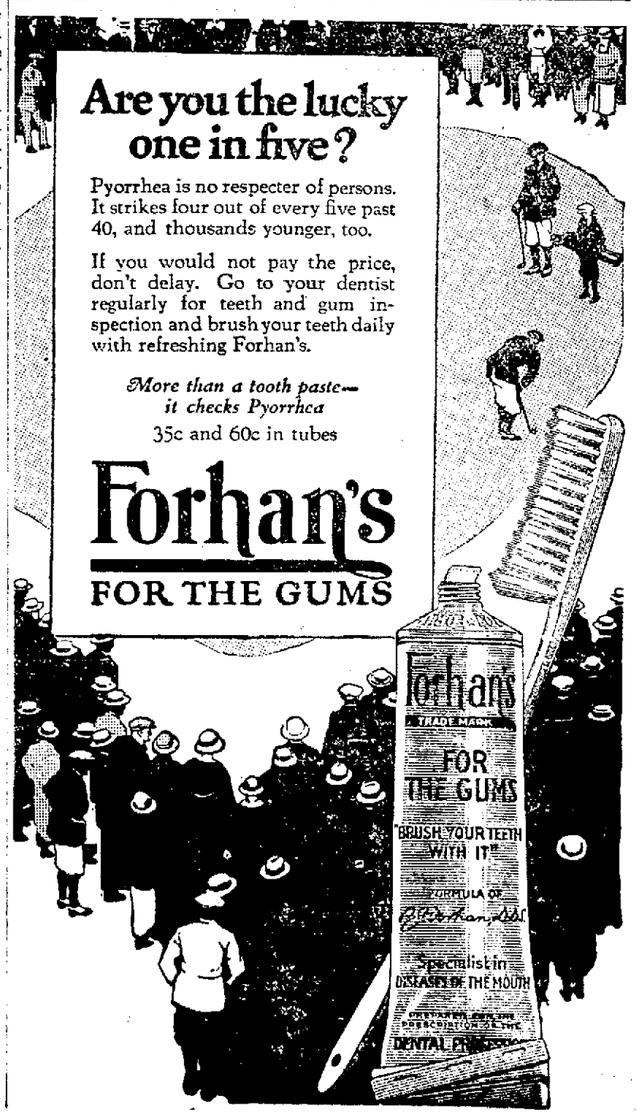

Massena, New York.—"I had terrible pains in both my sides and a dragging-down feeling that affected me so that I could hardly walk, and I got run-down. A friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it and I have taken it with the best results. I do my housework and also some outdoor work on the farm. The Vegetable Compound has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough. I am perfectly willing that you should use these facts if my letter will help other women who still suffer."—Mrs. Delbert Bush, R. F. D. 1, Massena, N.Y.

The spirit of helpfulness shown in the letters we are constantly publishing is worthy of notice.

These women know by experience what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do. Your troubles are the same as theirs.

If you have pains and a dragging-down feeling and are nervous and irritable, profit by Mrs. Bush's experience and give the Compound a trial.

LIVESTOCK DAY, JUNE 6
A trainload of experimental cattle and hogs will be shipped from Wooster to Washington C. H. to be exhibited at the yards of the Fayette Producer's Company, Friday, June 6. This will give cattle feeders and hog growers of southwestern Ohio an excellent opportunity for seeing the different groups of cattle and hogs that have been fed experimentally all winter at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster. Instead of asking a train load or so of busy farmers to cross the state in order to see and appreciate the experimental results, the order is to be reversed by shipping a small train load of the livestock exhibited at Wooster, on Livestock Day, to Washington C. H. Fayette County, near the center of Ohio's heaviest livestock producing section, where, it is thought, more Ohio feeders and hog growers will be able to attend than almost anywhere else in the State.

The results of feeding various rations and feeding different age classes as show by the animals on exhibit will be explained by the men in charge of the work. An excellent speaking program in addition to the regular demonstrations has been arranged.

CULTIVATING CORN INCREASES YIELD

Frequent cultivation of corn increases the yield by conserving moisture, keeping down weeds, and probably by increasing the nitrates in the soil.

The average yield of cultivated plots in a field at the Ohio Experiment Station in 1923 was 55.7 bushels per acre and of adjacent uncultivated plots from which the young weeds were kept scraped off without disturbing the soil was 42.7 bushels, a difference of 13 bushels per acre or 30 percent in favor of cultivation. In 1922, when the rainfall was abundant and well distributed, the difference was 3 bushels in favor of cultivation.

Agronomists at the Station attribute the larger yields on the cultivated land for the most part to the conservation of moisture which results from shallow cultivation soon after rains. The accumulation of nitrates was somewhat greater on the cultivated soil and may account in part for the increased yields.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, May 27.—Prices were somewhat irregular at the opening of the stock market today. Changes as a rule were unimportant, being confined to small fractions in leading industrials. A weak spot was Punta Allegre sugar which lost 1¼ to 51.

In the railroad list, Norfolk & Western and Delaware & Hudson were constructive features.

Oils were slightly irregular, Cosden rose ¼ to 30¼, but Pan American lost ¼ to 51¾.

CHICKS AND BABES GET SAME ADVICE

Egg Yolks Prevent Leg Weakness, Both Poultrymen and Physicians Find

Chick specialists and children's specialists seem to be taking a few leaves from each other's books.

A New York physician recommends feeding egg yolks to babies in order to strengthen their bones. For the same reason, tho they call it "leg weakness," poultry specialists at the Ohio State University this spring have been feeding egg yolks to young chickens on the University farm. So far, the chicks have shown no sign of leg weakness.

In feeding egg yolks to infants, the physician advises mixing half a yolk in a day's supply of milk for infants under two months of age. From that age and on, the recommendation is a whole yolk a day.

Measurement of the yolks for chickens is not so exact. The University poultrymen mix from two to six eggs in a gallon of milk. They use infertile eggs, easy to obtain if a hatchery is near by.

In the same way both chick and children's specialists are recommending cod liver oil to prevent leg weakness. A well-known children's specialist advises 15 drops a week to infants. For young chicks, the dose recommended both by the University and the Experiment Station is 2 parts of cod liver oil to 100 parts of mash, by weight.

MEN AND WOMEN IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Below: DANIEL G. REID & EVELYN SUE RICKNER

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late ex-president, fell and fractured a small shoulder bone on a recent visit to friends in Virginia. Mrs. Evelyn Sue Rickner has been found not guilty in Anniston, Ala., of the murder of her husband, Lieut. James C. Rickner, U. S. A., whom she shot to death in his quarters there. Daniel G. Reid, American tin plate king, has returned to New York from Europe with his personal physician, valet, barber, companion and four attendants, after a vain search for health. He has not slept a restful night in two years and smokes thirty cigars daily to steady his nerves. Countess Moroni, formerly Eleanor Jerwin, of New Orleans, and noted Southern beauty, is soon to marry Sir Mortimer Davis, Canadian tobacco king and one of the Dominion's wealthiest men. She secured a divorce a few years ago from the Count.

SEEK MURDERERS OF MILLIONAIRE'S KIDNAPED SON

ROBERT FRANKS, MR. & MRS. FRANKS & JACOB FRANKS, JR., RANSOM LETTER, WHERE BODY WAS FOUND & FRANKS' HOME.

Spurred on by rewards offered by Jacob Franks, multi-millionaire Chicago manufacturer, police of Chicago are centering their activities on finding the kidnapers and assassins of Frank's fourteen-year-old son and heir, Robert. The boy disappeared on his way from a private school to his father's palatial home. Later, this letter, couched in perfect English, was received, demanding $10,000 ransom. Before the lad's father could comply, the boy's body was found in this culvert, far from his home. A strange turn was given to the case by the fact that a pair of spectacles was found on his face, though he had never worn spectacles in his life. Mr. and Mrs. Franks have one other son, Jacob, Jr. It has been proved that at the time the ransom letter was received the boy was already dead.

CHIEF FIGURES IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Below: PARK BENJAMIN & JOHN DRINKWATER

James Brown, a coal miner, has entered upon ten days' duty as Deputy King of Scotland and as Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland. While living in historic Holyrood Palace he takes precedence over every one in Scotland but the King. Park Benjamin, of New York City, brother-in-law of the late Enrico Caruso, has been jailed there for failure to pay alimony to his first wife. John Drinkwater, famous British playwright, was named as co-respondent in the successful divorce action instituted in London by the pianist, Benno Moiseiwitch, against his wife, Daisy Kennedy, the violinist. Mrs. Anna Lamotte, the "Hetty Green of the West," has returned from a tour of Europe. As a girl she purchased a few acres of land in Oklahoma and leased them to cattle raisers. She gradually increased her holdings until today she owns 55,000 acres of land there, together with large realty holdings in Kansas City, Chicago and Detroit, including an ice factory in Kansas City.

CHARGE PLOT TO "FRAME" SENATOR.

Below: MRS. W. O. DUCKSTEIN & W. O. DUCKSTEIN.

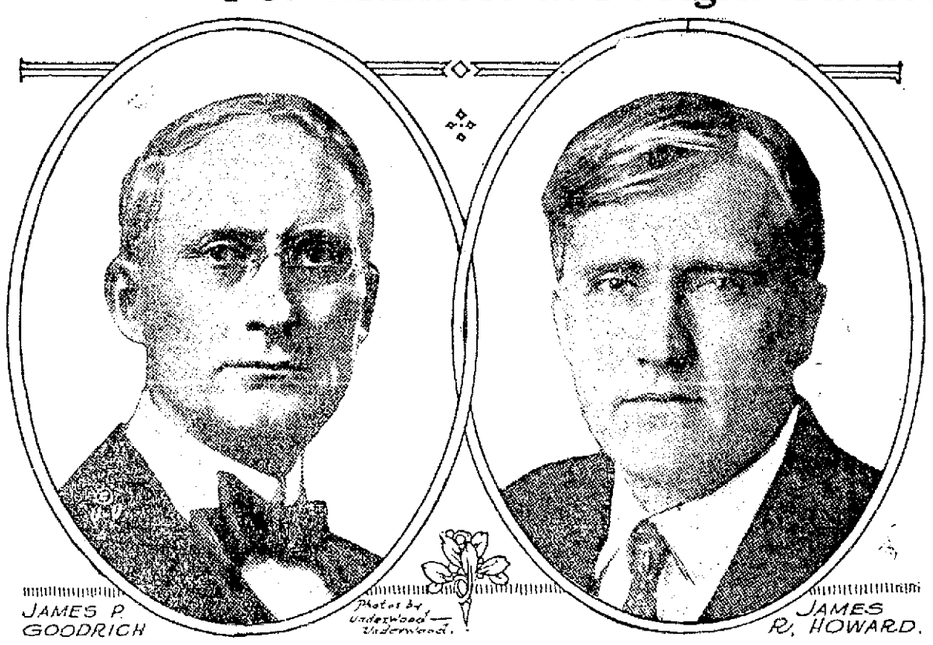

W. O. Duckstein, confidential adviser to Edward B. McLean, owner of the Washington Post, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Duckstein, confidential stenographer in the Department of Justice, startled the Senate Committee investigating the Department by alleging there was a plot to "frame" U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, chief prosecutor. They further testified that the famous diaries of Gaston B. Means, ex-investigator in the Department, had been stolen by agents who purported to be representing H. C. Todd, special assistant to former Attorney-General Harry M. Dougherty.

CHIEF FIGURES IN NEWS SPOTLIGHT.

Below: THOMAS S. BUTLER & ISADORA DUNCAN

A new airplane will be sent from Paris to Shanghai if Captain Pelletier d'Oisy, French air ace, who crashed there, desires to continue his flight to Tokio. Howard Carter, American co-discoverer of the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen, has settled his differences with the Egyptian Government, and will continue next year to explore the tomb, but will leave the King's body there, untouched. Declaring the American Navy has fallen behind that of Great Britain, Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee of the House, asked for the construction of eight scout cruisers, six gunboats and the modernization of six battleships. Isadora Duncan, famous American dancer, narrowly escaped death when her automobile was ditched near Petrograd, Russia. She was knocked senseless and received injuries about the head and face.

Plan Now Under Consideration Will Save $360,000,000 Annually For Midwest in Freight Tariffs

JAMES P. GOODRICH — JAMES R. HOWARD.

James P. Goodrich, former governor of Indiana, and James R. Howard, former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, are two of the men who will serve under the chairmanship of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, in an attempt to secure a deepening of the St. Lawrence waterway that, according to engineers and economists, will save the American farmer upwards of $360,000,000 a year.

Five cents a bushel saved on wheat shipments to New England, New York and Europe; cheap shipment of phosphates to the mid-western farmer, and a general pulling together commercially of the Great Lakes territory and the Atlantic seaboard are expected from the proposed improvement.

It is proposed to decrease the number of locks along the St. Lawrence route from 40 to 13, to improve the remaining locks and to deepen the channel so as to permit ocean-going steamers free access from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. Secretary Hoover has been working three years in furtherance of the plan. He maintains that the estimated saving of five cents a bushel on grain will give the mid-western farmer a first-rate margin to fight with in the markets of the world, and that such basically sound help is properly within the province of government and should draw the support of all Americans.

The St. Lawrence project constitutes one of a series, including the Colorado River irrigation scheme, the attempt to organize against extremes in the business cycle, the superpower co-operation recently agreed upon in the East and the vast simplification reforms suggested to manufacturers by the Department of Commerce, which Mr. Hoover believes are sound steps toward permanent prosperity.

Others who will serve on the St. Lawrence Commission of the United States include Charles P. Craig, secretary, Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, Stephen B. Davis, well-known New Mexico attorney, William C. Breed, James E. Davidson, James D. Noonan and Charles L. Allen.

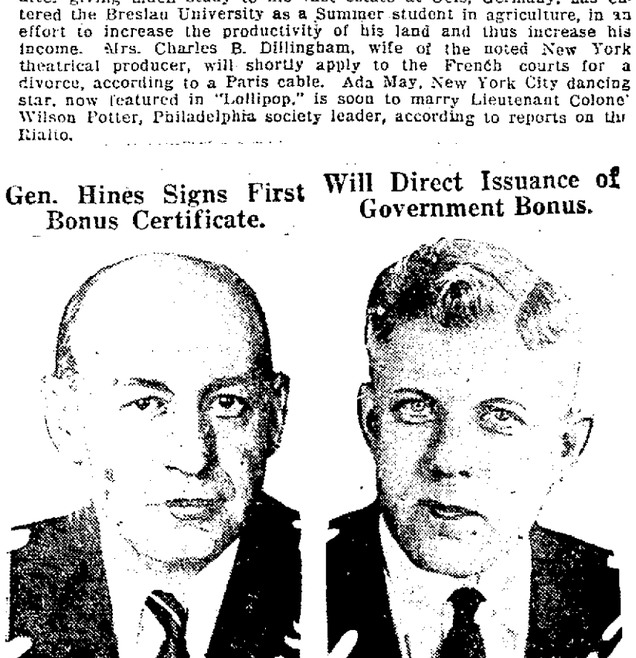

Miss Marye to Wed Italian Count.

MISS HELEN T. MARYE

Despite the opposition of her father, the former U. S. Ambassador to Russia, Miss Helen T. Marye, Philadelphia society girl, has announced her engagement to Count Arnoldi, of Italy, a dashing cavalry officer. The romance is one of the saddle, the cavalryman admiring Miss Marye's superb riding.

MEN AND WOMEN IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Above: CURTIS D. WILBUR & ADA MAY
Below: EX-CROWN PRINCE & MRS. CHARLES DILLINGHAM

In a report to Congress, Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur admits the American Navy has fallen below the terms of the Naval Disarmament Treaty, until the ratio, which should be 5-5-3, is now: England, 5; America, 4; Japan, 3. Ex-Crown Prince Frederich Wilhelm, after giving much study to his vast estate at Oels, Germany, has entered the Breslau University as a Summer student in agriculture, in an effort to increase the productivity of his land and thus increase his income. Mrs. Charles B. Dillingham, wife of the noted New York theatrical producer, will shortly apply to the French courts for a divorce, according to a Paris cable. Ada May, New York City dancing star, now featured in "Lollipop," is soon to marry Lieutenant Colonel Wilson Potter, Philadelphia society leader, according to reports on the Rialto.

Two-thirds of all the children have savings accounts with her.

Predict Dr. Fosdick Will Be Ousted.

DR. HARRY E. FOSDICK

The ousting of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Modernist leader, from his New York City pastorate and a complete rout of Modernists in the Presbyterian Church, was predicted in Grand Rapids, Mich., following the announcement that Dr. Charles E. Macartney, of Philadelphia, moderator-elect of the Presbyterian General Assembly, had named William Jennings Bryan as vice-moderator, and ultra-fundamentalist to chairmanships of all important church committees.

Open Safety Pin Is Taken from Lung.

HELEN LAWS.

Maybe little Helen Laws, of Johnson City, Tenn., began practicing at the early age of nine months to be a sword swallower, starting with a light diet of safety pins, wide open. She bungled the first job and the safety pin was just entering her right lung when a physician found it by means of the X-ray, watched it with a larnygnoscope and pulled it out with a long pair of tweezers. Now Helen is back at the smiling stage, as this photograph shows.
